THREE-POINT REBEL DRIVE ON MADRID

Near Toledo Fiercest Battle of War So Far Is Being Fought; Insurgents Say 3,000 Loyalist Soldiers Slain

Madrid Airdrome Bombed By Rebels

By RAMON BLARDONEY
Associated Press Correspondent
Madrid, Sept. 17.—Fascist attackers and Socialist defenders clashed today near Toledo in an engagement described as "the fiercest battle since the outbreak of the revolution."
Government military commanders sent several thousand troops to Toledo as the insurgents were reported to have begun a three-point drive on the Spanish capital.
The Fascist forces in the Talavera sector west of Toledo, led personally by Gen. Francisco Franco, commander-in-chief of the insurgents, renewed a driving attack against reinforced Socialist columns.
Advices reaching Madrid said the battle was taking place "several" miles from Toledo, once the capital of the kingdom of Ferdinand and Isabella.

FROM THE NORTH

Reports to the war ministry declared simultaneous Fascist movements were begun from the north-east, the north and the northwest.
Insurgent militia moved on the capital from Sigüenza, Guadalajara, Province, and fierce attacks were ordered in the mountainous Guadarrama Passes where government troops held fortified positions.
FOREIGN FLIERS
Foreign "daredevil" pilots are being recruited, the government asserted today, to man a "huge fleet of new bombing and fighting planes" against Fascist insurgents.
Gen. Franco was reported to have claimed mobilization of 175,000 men north and west of Madrid. If necessary, he was said to have asserted, he could rush almost 1,000,000 men to the battlefield for a definite attack on Madrid within two weeks.

BATTLE IN PASSES

Government artillery batteries in the Guadarrama passes opened fire as the Fascist forces attempted to drive the Socialists from the mountain passes.
An insurgent air squadron bombed the Trubing gun factory in Oviedo province, it was reported, while Socialist fighting planes in the Aragonese front routed six Fascist planes, forcing one to land. The grounded plane was reported to be of foreign manufacture and piloted by a foreign flier.

Loggers Have Day At Victoria Fair

Sawing and Chopping Contest Draws Crowd; Dahlia Show in Main Building; Young Farmers in Judging and Showing Contests

With shirt sleeves rolled up, hefty loggers from the island's lumber camps piled gleaming axes and jagged saws on blocks of wood in the first loggers' sports ever to be staged at the Victoria Fair this afternoon.

A large crowd marvelled at the skill and speed of the lumberjacks in cutting and chopping up trunks of trees.
The sports got away to a flying start at 2 o'clock with a large entry for the $50 in prize money in the men's open sawing contest. Beside paying $25 to the winner, the man who filed the winning saw got a $10 prize as well.

The other competitions included novice sawing, men's open chopping, novice chopping and a ladies' sawing contest. The sports were in charge of J. W. Auchincloss.

At the same time young stockmen were displaying their wares in the cattle showmanship competition, which was staged in the Horse Show Building. This contest, which was for boys and girls under twenty years

Residence To Be Determined

Policy For Municipalities on Social Services Is Sought

An effort to reach a fixed policy on a residence period for use in connection with social services in municipalities in British Columbia will be made at the annual convention of the Union of B.C. Municipalities in Vernon next week.

Dr. Harry M. Cassidy, director of social welfare for the government, will attend to discuss the question with municipal heads.
Argument has arisen in many cases where people move from one municipality to another as to the financial responsibility of the two when a person becomes a social service client. This applies in matters of relief, mother's pensions, old age pensions, tuberculosis, insanity and industrial school cases, and similar services.
A person may move his location and after a few years in his new home need assistance. Since municipal governments have to contribute a certain amount for cases of this kind disputes develop as to whether this cost should fall on the place in which he is living or that he has recently left.

The proposal now is to fix a stated period within which a person should live in a municipality before he can be said to have established residence for these purposes.

NO ALCAZAR EXPLOSION YET

Associated Press
Toledo, Spain, Sept. 17.—Execution by explosion of 1,700 men, women and children in Toledo's Alcazar was postponed at the last minute today, the mayor of the city told the Associated Press, to give the besieged Fascists one more chance to surrender.
The postponement also was ordered to put finishing touches to the mining of the shell-battered citadel, the mayor asserted.
However, he said, the Alcazar is likely to be blown up "soon."

May, superintendent of the Canadian Airways Limited division here, said he had received a personal message to this effect:
"With stops probable along the way it is expected the R.C.A.F. airmen will reach Edmonton some time Friday."

As to details concerning the men's plight and how they had managed to live when short of rations, Capt. May said he had no information.
"They probably lived on Barren Lands berries. That would be about all they could get in that region," said Capt. May.
In view of the approaching freeze-up, Capt. May expressed the opinion all possible speed would be made in getting the men to Edmonton.
AFTER WIDESPREAD SEARCH
Fort Reliance, N.W.T., Sept. 17.—Two Royal Canadian Air Force fliers, located by fellow airmen after thirty days of one of the most intensive searches in the history of Canadian aviation, rested today on the shore of Point Lake, 250 miles northwest of here.

If the weather is suitable, he declared, he plans to attempt to set a new flying record from England to South Africa, and later might "consider" a flight around the world at the equator.

Thieves Make Haul In Cash

Associated Press
Reykjavik, Iceland, Sept. 17.—A single survivor told today of the tragic fate of thirty-nine scientists and sailors who drowned after the grounded French polar exploration ship Pourquoi Pas was ripped to pieces by a hurricane off the Iceland coast.

He was Eugene Geonede, ship's petty officer whom the waves cast up on the rocky shore. Farmers found him on the rocks—unconscious, half-frozen and lashed to a piece of wood.
Near the spot where he was thrown, the pounded bodies of thirty of the victims were found later. Among them was Captain Jean Baptiste Charcot, distinguished Arctic and Antarctic explorer.
The Pourquoi Pas, returning from a five-month expedition, ran into the hurricane yesterday, Geonede said. The ship with its crew and scientists was en route to Copenhagen, where the explorers were to be welcomed by the Royal Danish Geographical Society.

GAS PRICE IS CUT TWO CENTS

Gallon Rate Set at 27 Cents in Line With Vancouver Reduction

A general reduction of two cents a gallon in gasoline was announced today by all major oil companies of the city who followed yesterday's lead of the Texaco and Home Oil distributors in establishing the new price.
The reduction was made by the companies to the retailers who have passed it on to the motorists, making the price of gasoline now twenty-seven cents a gallon.
It was understood the move was one started by the companies on the mainland to keep the Victoria price more or less in line with the Vancouver rate, where the standard price is now twenty-five cents.
Local representatives today intimated the new price would become the regular rate for some time at least, as the reduction was not taken to indicate the start of a new "gas war."

Associated Press

Replying to German hopes France would give up its military alliance with Russia, M. Blum declared his government would keep faith with all its engagements, contracts and pacts.
The French Government "manifests simultaneously its firm intention to prolong such agreements until there is a universal organization of all peoples, united by peace in common prosperity," the Premier said.

PILOTS SHOW FRIENDSHIP

Richman-Merrill Trans-Atlantic Plane Kept Down By Newfoundland Fog

Canadian Press
Musgrave Harbor, Nfld., Sept. 17.—Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker lined up his flying friends today for a smiling, handshaking photograph in front of their trans-Atlantic plane "Lady Peace," to show they were members of "just one happy family."
Included in the beaming group were Harry Richman, Dick Merrill, round-trip Atlantic airmen; George W. (Pete) Branson, Rickenbacker's chief pilot, and the air line manager himself.
Rickenbacker, undecided whether to repair the damaged $100,000 plane here or at Harbor Grace, said he would probably hop off for Newfoundland's only airport tomorrow in a new plane.
A pea-soup fog blanketed the coast today and it seemed likely Richman's plane would be grounded for another day at least.

BIG STRIKE IN FRANCE TO END

Agreement on Terms to Settle Textile Dispute Approaches Completion

Associated Press
Paris, Sept. 17.—French government officials late today announced an agreement had been reached to settle the troublesome strike of thousands of Lille textile workers.
Minister of the Interior Roger Salengro said only a few minor points remained to be ironed out.
The employees, occupying their establishments in a new strike wave which has spread to 25,000 textile workers, demanded application of the forty-hour week provided by a new law and wage increases.
The mill owners asked evacuation of the mills and a guarantee the workers' union would not usurp the authority of employers.
Under the preliminary agreement announced this evening, the strikers won a 6 per cent wage increase, effective October 1, but acceded to employers' restrictions on the designation of labor delegates within the factories.

The loss was fully covered by insurance.

Representative Is Renominated

In Michigan P. Brown Nominated For U.S. Congress

Associated Press
Washington, Sept. 17.—From a breathlessly close race for the United States Democratic senatorial nomination in Michigan, Representative Prentiss Brown emerged today as the victor over Louis B. Ward, former Washington representative for Rev. Father Charles E. Coughlin.

Votes from Detroit trimmed down the margin that Brown, a New Deal supporter, had held from the early counting, but were insufficient to give Ward the advantage.

With fewer than 200 precincts, including only a few from Detroit, to be tabulated, Brown held a better than 5,000 lead. The unofficial count was 116,888 to 114,793.

COUSINS IN OUT

The victor will oppose Wilbur M. Brucker, Republican, who won in Tuesday's primary by the wide margin over the veteran Senator James Coussens.

Frank Murphy, High Commissioner to the Philippines, and Governor Frank D. Fitzgerald were chosen by Michigan Democrats and Republicans, respectively, as gubernatorial nominees.

IN OTHER STATES

Late tabulations of other primaries held, like Michigan's on Tuesday, showed:

Massachusetts—For the Senate: Governor James M. Curley, Democrat, and Henry Cabot Lodge, Republican.

Wisconsin—Governor Philip LaFollette, running without opposition for the Progressive nomination for Governor, received 12,000 more votes than those cast in the Republican gubernatorial primary, and 30,000 more than the Democrats.

New York—All incumbent representatives who had Townsend-Coughlin opposition were victorious but tabulations showed heavy polling by the forces headed by the $200-a-month old-age-pension advocate and the Detroit priest.

New Hampshire—Governor H. Styles Bridges, Republican, and Representative William N. Rogers, Democrat, were chosen to battle for the Senate seat vacated by Henry W. Kayser.

PAUSE IN SEATTLE STRIKE HEARING

Associated Press
Seattle, Sept. 17.—Examiner Edwin S. Smith, Washington, D.C., national labor relations board member, came from a conference with Hearst and labor board counsel today and announced adjournment of the Post-Intelligencer-American Newspaper Guild hearing till tomorrow, "by agreement of counsel."

Smith declined to state the reason for the adjournment and Robert G. Woods, hearing counsel, referred interviewers to Smith.

NO BREAK SEEN

Earlier today H. Richard Sells, president of the Seattle chapter of the American Newspaper Guild, had said the newspaper strike against the Post-Intelligencer would be carried to a finish, even if it should result in the newspaper's permanent suspension.

Post-Intelligencer executives refused comment on the fact the Seattle Central Labor Council yesterday evening ignored a plea from business men to take the newspaper off the "unfair" list and withdraw picket lines before suspension should become permanent.

Charles E. Lindeman, associate publisher of the Hearst-owned morning newspaper, declined to say whether the Labor Council's attitude would affect a previously announced decision "to defer action for a brief period" on permanent closing of the publishing plant.

SAY 3,000 SLAIN
Canadian Press from Havana

Seville, Spain, Sept. 17.—Insurgent battle planes, in sweeping air offensives, bombed a Madrid airdrome and many other government-held points in the country.

Wireless reports said airplanes also bombed government entrenchments in Leon province, whose borders are about 150 miles northwest of those of Madrid province, as well as other government positions in the Asturias, in the north and east of the province.

Three planes were destroyed in a bombardment of an airdrome at Andujar, in the latter region, it was said.

All government resistance is useless, the wireless reports claimed, announcing that Socialists suffered 3,000 killed in ineffectual attacks against Rightist forces within the last few days. Seven of their airplanes were brought down by insurgent fliers, the reports claimed.

ON TALAVERA FRONT
Insurgent forces smashing eastward on the Talavera front toward Toledo routed two government columns in separate engagements, killing 520, and marched on in an effort to rescue the 1,400 men, women and children besieged in the Alcazar fortress at Toledo for the past two months, it was asserted.

CLAIM COLUMN ROUTED
Havana News Agency

Seville, Spain, Sept. 17.—Insurgent forces, smashing eastward on the Talavera front toward Toledo, routed a government column and marched to rescue the 1,700 men, women and children besieged in the Alcazar fortress for the past two months, Fascist commanders said today.

The retreating Socialists left 150 dead and a large quantity of war supplies on the battlefield, it was said. An attempted counter attack against an insurgent column commanded by Major Monasterio was repulsed with heavy losses, the command declared.

The imminent capture of Bilbao and Santander, northern Spanish ports remaining in government hands, was confidently predicted by Fascist leaders.

HOLD-UP MEN HUNTED
New Westminster, Sept. 17 (Canadian Press).—Police today were searching for two men who held up T. Pappas of Vancouver here last night and robbed him of $8. Pappas said he was going to his parked automobile from the Queen's Park arena when accosted by the men who fled into the bush after taking his money.

Storm Menaces Carolina Coast
Hurricane Over Atlantic May Miss U.S. Coast, But People Warned to Be in Readiness to Take Shelter
Associated Press
Jacksonville, Fla., Sept. 17.—The weather bureau said today a severe tropical hurricane moving northwestward over the Atlantic Ocean "probably will pass to the east of Cape Hatteras during the latter part of this afternoon or early tonight."

Forecasters here said the storm centre was about 250 miles southeast of Cape Hatteras and its forward movement was increasing "with some indications of turning north-northwest."

They said if the indicated curve to the northward should continue the hurricane might miss the North Carolina coastline, but might not pull to the north and east sufficiently to miss the entire seaboard section.

WARNINGS GIVEN
Norfolk, Va., Sept. 17.—Warnings of a hurricane that may strike with heavy force, recalling the storm of three years ago, flew today along the Virginia and Carolina coasts.

John J. Murphy, chief of the Norfolk Weather Bureau said that while there was a possibility the storm would change its course, the situation was bad and as threatening as three years ago.

High tides, high winds and high seas were sure to result, even if the full fury of the storm was not felt here, he said.

Washington, Sept. 17.—Headquarters of the United States Red Cross directed all coast chapters in Georgia, North Carolina, Virginia and Maryland today to stand in readiness to give disaster relief to regions that might be hit by a storm off the Atlantic Coast.

PLANES READY
Washington, Sept. 17 (Associated Press).—With a tropical hurricane reported sweeping northward off the southeast coast, United States coast-bombing headquarters today ordered four amphibian planes from Florida to Charleston, S.C., and another pair from Cape May, New Jersey, to Norfolk, Va.

Although saying the storm may not strike at or near either of the two points, officials added the planes were being sent to assist in any hurricane work which may be necessary.

Gen. Anido As Spain Dictator
Associated Press
St. Jean de Luz, France, Sept. 17.—Gen. Martinez Anido, seventy-year-old military leader, was reported today to be the Fascists' choice for prospective dictator of Spain in the event of an insurgent civil war victory.

Gen. Anido, who fifteen years ago established a reputation as a strong administrator at Barcelona, was declared to be acceptable to all insurgent chiefs.

His selection was heard in diplomatic circles as resulting from the reluctance of Gen. Francisco Franco to accept the dictatorial post and the feeling choice of other insurgent leaders would lead to factional rivalry.

FIRE IN VANCOUVER
Vancouver, Sept. 17 (Canadian Press).—A radio shop and a cafe were damaged and tenants of apartments above were forced to flee to the streets by a fire which broke out in a downtown section of this city early today. No estimate of damage caused by the fire, of unknown origin, has been made.

Ottawa, Sept. 17.—J. C. McRuer, K.C., of Toronto, has been appointed to fill the vacancy on the Royal Commission on Penitentiaries. The choice was announced yesterday evening by Minister of Justice Lapointe, acting Prime Minister.

The vacancy was created by the death of Harry Anderson, former managing editor of The Toronto Globe, who passed away during the summer. The commission was created last spring, but is only now getting down to work.

Mr. Justice Joseph Archaebault of the Quebec superior court, chairman; R. W. Craig, K.C., Winnipeg, and Mr. McRuer form the commission as it is now constituted. The first formal hearing will be held on Monday next in Ottawa. Private conferences will be held in the meantime.

NEW TRAINING FOR JOBLESS
Vancouver Employers Make Suggestion to B.C. Labor Minister For Single Men

Vancouver, Sept. 17.—Plans of the federal government for caring for single men in British Columbia this winter were regarded as inadequate by certain Vancouver employers who conferred yesterday evening with Hon. G. S. Pearson, British Columbia Minister of Labor.

The employers expressed the opinion the federal suggestion of providing single men with small subsistence allowances and placing them on farms was inadequate to meet the situation in this province.

They claimed that to subsidize workers in industries would jeopardize the security of men already employed, and also that farms similar to those in eastern Canada did not exist here.

The meeting recommended that young men be trained in skilled work and that something be done to prevent unemployed from coming here from other provinces during the winter.

Mr. Pearson returned to Victoria after the meeting.

BLOOD IS SHED IN CALIFORNIA
Pickets in Lettuce Workers' Strike Warned to Keep Off Streets
Associated Press
Salinas, Calif., Sept. 17.—Warning that a "massacre is awaiting you," A. S. Does, secretary of the Fruit and Vegetable Workers' Union, today ordered striking lettuce worker pickets to remain off the streets to prevent repetition of bloody clashes with officers.

"Do not assemble in groups, as it means wholesale murder to do so," Does said in a pamphlet issued to the strikers.

Officers prepared to cope with further disorders and the citizens' Association of Salinas warned the strikers that the "disorders have aroused public indignation."

AT VEGETABLE SHEDS
Does charged the grower-shippers association was keeping workers in the sheds under duress, and charged that officers fought with those inside the sheds.

Does added "it would be murder for anybody to go on the streets today, as the deputized citizens have gone entirely 'haywire'."

He declared he was withdrawing his son from high school because the students were required to cut pick handles into clubs "for their fathers to be beaten up with."

Cruse Carriel, executive secretary of the Citizens' Association, warned the union that pickets of all organizations, including the culinary alliance and beauty operators, should be withdrawn.

Ralph Hughes, a leading banker, expressed the opinion there might be further disorders, which already have resulted in injuries to at least ten persons, declaring he had information that longshoremen were coming here from San Francisco.

ARMY LINKS MADE PUBLIC
Associated Press
Washington, Sept. 17.—A report asserting that E. I. du Pont de Nemours and Company, United States chemical firm, owns $892,671 worth of stock in a giant German armament trust, has been made public by the Senate munitions investigating committee.

The report showed the Du Pont Company controlled 7.98 per cent of the voting stock of the Dynamit Aktiengesellschaft, largest German explosives manufacturer, and had invested $1,159,904 in another German chemical firm, the I. G. Farbenindustrie.

An informal agreement between the Dynamit Company and the Du Pont firm providing for the exchange of information and patents and the division of sales territory was also disclosed by the committee.

The Senate investigators, headed by Senator Nye, North Dakota Republican, declared in its final report that "the international commercial interests of such large organizations as Du Pont and Imperial Chemical Industries may precede in the minds of those companies the importance of national policy."

"Such considerations of commercial interests were apparently foremost in the rearming of Germany beginning in 1924," the report continued, "and in the sale of a process which could be used to manufacture cheaper munitions in Japan in 1932, shortly after Secretary of State Stimson had taken steps to express the disapproval of this nation for Japan's military activities in Manchukuo."

Survivor Tells Of Fate of Two Score

The crew tried to launch lifeboats. Geonedeck asserted, but mountainous waves breaking over the little vessel made it impossible. The high seas even washed away all lifeboats, he declared.

Geonedeck said the expedition members and crew then tried their only chance—to swim to safety. But only Geonedeck reached the shore alive.

On the coast, residents of the district watched the men sink in the battering waves. A short time later the Danish gunboat Aegir, which hurried to help of the Pourquoi Pas, found only the mast tops of the doomed ship protruding from the water.

The voyage, ironically, was to have been the last for both the polar ship and Dr. Charcot. The expedition was sponsored by the Paris Torcador Museum of Ethnography and sailed from Copenhagen April 25.

Dr. Charcot, who was sixty-nine, had led numerous expeditions into the north and south polar seas and won decorations from both the French and British governments for his explorations.

Dr. Charcot, sixty-nine, had an international reputation as an explorer. The region on the edge of the Antarctic near Grahamland was named for him and is known as Charcotland.

He led two expeditions to the South Pole area—in 1906-1908 and in 1908-1910—and held decorations from both the French and British Governments.

The last expedition to the South Pole area was made in the Pourquoi Pas, which was built especially for the explorer at St. Malo, France.

Captain Charcot inherited his scientific tastes from his father, Dr. J. M. Charcot, who was one of the world's leading neurologists at the time of his death in 1893.

Charcot was a member of the French Academies of Science, Marine and Medicine, and won decorations of both France and Great Britain.

He was twice married. His wife sued for divorce while he was in the Antarctic in 1905.

Capt. Charcot was a lifetime resident of Neuilly-sur-Seine. The widow and two daughters survive him.

Fliers Rescued In Barren Lands; In Edmonton Soon

"fair" physical condition yesterday by fliers who had combed the vast northern wilderness during every possible daylight hour since August 17, when the men failed to return after flying a new motor to an R.C.A. plane grounded in the north.

All the resources of the air force were thrown into the search at once. A supply base was established at Fort Smith, on the Alberta border, 200 miles south of here. Temporary bases were set up. Arrangements were made to freight thousands of gallons of gasoline into the northern district.

A wireless station was rigged up and a medical health officer was flown north to stand by for emergencies.

Fifteen mechanics were stationed in the area and each night after the weary pilots had returned, the several planes were checked carefully for another day. All this effort was thrown into the search in the face of discouraging reports returned each day for nearly a month.

Then, last Monday, first word of hope was flashed out of the northern sky. An empty gasoline drum bearing a message from the missing men had been found a mile north of Lac de Gras, some seventy-five miles southeast of Point Lake, where the fliers were located eventually.

The fliers' message, scribbled on the empty drum which had been tossed from their plane, stated the plane, "Aircraft 54," carried only enough gasoline for another hour's flight, and that the aviators would fly south for thirty-five minutes.

The terse message was enough to inspire the searchers to greater efforts, which yesterday succeeded.

Major J. E. Hunter, formerly of Victoria, but now medical officer of Military District 13, stationed at Calgary, was flown to Fort Reliance early this month to be on hand if his services were required.

Details of the manner in which Coleman and Porter became lost and were freed by lack of fuel could not be learned immediately. Previous reports had indicated they had carried with them only a few days' rations, and it was believed they had taken refuge in some trapper's cabin.

Potato Price Is Investigated

Canadian Press
Vancouver, Sept. 17.—Alderman Warner Leach and City Market Commissioner W. J. McGuigan yesterday were authorized by the city market committee to confer with Hon. K. C. MacDonald, British Columbia Minister of Agriculture, producers, and members of the British Columbia Potato Marketing Board as to alleged excessive prices paid for potatoes by Vancouver consumers.

Commissioner McGuigan told members of the market committee that British Columbia potatoes wholesale in Vancouver at $35 a ton were being sold at $17 and $18 a ton on the prairie.

The meeting also considered proposals of the Chinese Peddlers' Association against alleged interference from inspectors of the marketing board, claiming their wagons had been upset by the inspectors who dumped potatoes on the road and left them there.

D. E. McTaggart, corporation counsel, said that if illegal interferences were being made the peddlers would have grounds for action against the inspectors.

Big Nugget Seen At Vancouver

Canadian Press
Vancouver, Sept. 17.—What is believed here to be the largest gold nugget ever found in Canada, as large as a goose egg, weighing forty-three ounces 3 pennyweight and valued at more than $1,200, was brought to Vancouver yesterday by Carl Lykegard from Spruce Creek, near Altin, B.C.

Lykegard, a Dane who has been placer mining on Spruce Creek for the past six years, found the nugget at a depth of 500 feet during drifting operations 1,200 feet from the creek.

Price Control For Hatching Eggs

Canadian Press
Edmonton, Sept. 17.—Regulation of hatching egg prices should be controlled by each province, according to a resolution passed at the inaugural meeting of the Western Canada Hatcherymen's Association.

Attended by twenty-four poultrymen from Alberta and British Columbia, the conference continued today to discuss minimum baby chick prices and other hatchery problems that have arisen due to interprovincial trade.

U.S. Buys More Canadian Wheat

Republic In Need of Big Grain Imports

Washington Government Estimates U.S. Will Import More Wheat This Crop Year Than Ever Recorded Before

Use of Power Steadily Grows

Engineers Meet at Niagara Falls, N.Y., and Discuss Needs of Public

Canadian Press
New York, Sept. 17.—A Washington correspondent of The New York Herald-Tribune reports today that Department of Commerce and Bureau of Agriculture estimates indicate the United States will import more wheat in 1936 than in any previous year in the country's history, and four times as much as was ever imported in a single year before 1934.

The correspondent says that while the nation will consume about 42,500,000 bushels of foreign wheat, it will export only about 500,000 bushels.

He adds: "This year will, therefore, bring to a sharp climax the United States movement from a wheat export to a wheat import basis, accomplished in the last three years. Simultaneously an unpublished estimate by one group of Department of Agriculture experts showed pretty clearly that without the A.A.A.'s crop reduction policy the movement might never have occurred."

Department of Commerce figures are said to show that imports from Canada alone totaled 11,130,000 bushels from July 1 to Sept. 12.

FRUIT DUTIES TO BE LOWERED

Fixed Valuation on Peaches, Cantaloupes and Plums to End September 21

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Sept. 17.—Suspension of the fixed valuation for duty purposes on a number of specified fruits when imported into British Columbia, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta was announced today by the Department of National Revenue. The fruits affected are peaches, cantaloupes, muskmelons and plums, and the suspension will become effective on September 21.

In the case of peaches the fixed valuation was an advance of 1 2/3 cents a pound on the invoice price; cantaloupes and muskmelons, 2 cents a pound advance on the invoice price; and plums 1 cent a pound advance. The department also announced cancellation of the fixed valuation for duty purposes on prunes, effective the same day on all entries. The fixed valuation in this case is 1 cent a pound.

The fixed valuation operates as a dumping duty, and in addition the ad valorem duty is figured on the advanced price of the product whatever it may be.

New Directors Are Named at Ottawa

Dr. C. Cammell Will Be Deputy Minister of Department of Mines and Natural Resources, With Five Branch Heads

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Sept. 17.—Announcement of the reorganization of several departments of the government into the Department of Mines and Natural Resources made today confirmed forecasts that the deputy minister would be Dr. Charles Cammell, up to now deputy minister of mines. The department will be divided into five units with a director in immediate charge of each. The directors will be:

Mines and geology—John McLaughlin, now director of the mines and geology branch.
Lands, parks and forests—R. A. Gibson, now assistant deputy minister of the interior.
Surveys and engineering—J. M. Wardle, now deputy minister of the interior.
Indian affairs—Dr. H. W. McGill, now deputy minister of Indian affairs.
Immigration—F. C. Blair, now assistant deputy minister of immigration.

The salary of the deputy minister will be $10,000 a year and the directors each $7,500. The reorganization will take effect December 1, when the act authorizing it will be proclaimed. The department will be under Hon. T. A. Crerar, who is at present inspecting western mining districts.

Sees Growth Of Confidence

People in U.S. Know Economic Situation Improving, Says Roosevelt

Associated Press
Washington, Sept. 17.—President Roosevelt told an annual meeting of the Mobilization for Human Needs today that the income of the United States soon would be double what it was at the low point of the depression and that "confidence has returned to the great mass of our people."

Several times he referred to "returning prosperity" and on that basis built an argument that if relief organizations should expect a larger measure of private aid and that every individual has a greater obligation "to aid in the relief of distress in his or her own community."

From the south portico of the White House Mr. Roosevelt spoke to a mobilization delegates gathered on the lawn. The organization seeks support for those social services financed by private funds rather than by taxes.

MORE FINDING WORK
Turning to general economic conditions, Mr. Roosevelt asserted: "Nearly 6,000,000 more men and women are now at work in private industry, 3,000,000 others are engaged in useful work provided or assisted by government. Factory payrolls the first quarter of this year were more than $70,000,000 greater each week than they were in the first quarter of 1933."

"Systematic and successful efforts to raise the buying power of wage-earners and farmers have increased the business of merchants and brought orders to manufacturers. Confidence has returned to the great mass of our people—confidence on the part of all except a small minority who seek to profit from the preaching of fear."

Changes Soon In League Council

New Zealand Probably Will Be Given One of Seats

Associated Press
Geneva, Sept. 17.—World diplomats who will convene for the annual Assembly of the League of Nations next Monday, face an extensive business programme in addition to peace and disarmament debates.

Election of League and League Council members and selection of three judges for the World Court of Justice occupy top rank for prospective action.

Australia, whose three-year term will expire this year, will probably be replaced on the Council by New Zealand, since by tacit consent such a seat is reserved for one of the nations of the British Commonwealth.

The Assembly also must elect successors to Argentina and Denmark.

Portugal also will end her three-year term as a Council member to which she was elected as a special favor three years ago. Another of the smaller countries, perhaps Austria, will be given Portugal's place.

In addition, the Assembly may create a special seat for China so that Far Eastern countries may have a voice in the council. The Far East has not been represented since Japan withdrew.

As a result of the Anglo-Egyptian treaty, Egypt becomes eligible for League membership, which is only available to "fully self-governing states, dominions and colonies."

Embargo Plan For Novelties

Canadian Press
Montreal, Sept. 17.—An embargo on imported novelties, such as those being prepared for King Edward's coronation, was suggested by Walter Parker of the Montreal branch of the South African Veterans' Association when he appeared before the Veterans' Assistance Commission yesterday.

Parker suggested to the federal commission that Canadian war veterans could manufacture these novelties for sale in Canada.

Chairman J. G. Rattray said the commission would give consideration to the suggestion.

Two Controlled By Delusions

Canadian Press
London, Sept. 17.—A rare mental trouble, "folie du deux" (the madness of two), affecting two people living together, was mentioned at Liverpool when two women were accused of shop-lifting.

Dr. J. H. Murdock, medical officer at the Strangeways prison, said the younger woman, who suffered from religious delusions, influenced the other to such an extent that she also became mentally unbalanced.

Their whole lives were controlled by delusions, on which they acted in the belief they were divine revelations.

Groups Studying Earth's Changes

Geodesy and Geophysics Union Holds Conference at Edinburgh

By Science Service
Edinburgh, Sept. 17.—Investigators of the earth's shape, composition and surroundings are meeting here for a two week conference of the International Union of Geodesy and Geophysics. Representatives of thirty-five countries are discussing international co-operation and the results of past research programmes.

The fields of geodesy, seismology, terrestrial magnetism and electricity, meteorology and scientific hydrology are covered by the seven associations of which the International Union of Geodesy and Geophysics is composed.

A few of the subjects being discussed are: The aurora, the transmission of radio signals, the determination of the figure of the earth, isostasy, the Wegener theory of drifting continents, the variation of latitude, the prediction of weather, the making of a world magnetic map to aid navigation by water and air, the location of epicentres of earthquakes and the determination of the times of travel of earthquake waves, the determination of the configuration of ocean basins, the cause of volcanoes both on continents and on islands, the evaporation of water from land and lakes, and the growth or retreat of glaciers.

European Chess Board

THE RE-ENTRY OF POLAND INTO the French orbit is one of the most interesting of the recent developments in that immense, tragedy-fraught game of chess called European politics.

Poland, created a nation as a result of the Great War, became a link in the iron chain France drew around Germany when, in 1923, she signed a treaty with France providing for mutual aid in the event either nation was attacked.

The accord between the two countries was, of course, cemented by lavish loans to Poland of French francs.

When Hitler seized power in Germany Poland eyed him with apprehension. Polish statesmen were familiar with Hitler's plans for empire as set forth in his book, "Mein Kampf." And even French francs were impotent to dissolve a feeling that perhaps, after all, it would be better for Poland to be on the German side of the chess board. Polish ardor for a French orientation not only cooled, it all but froze.

Since then, the Franco-Soviet treaty has been signed. The whole alignment of pawns on the chess board has been changed. And Poland now prepares to accept a loan of two billion francs from France, mainly for the increased mechanization of her army and the expansion of her air force.

Back of the terrific heave-and-haul of diplomatic forces in Europe today seems to be Hitler's determination to detach France from her alliance with Russia. Thus, as set forth in "Mein Kampf," he could secure his western boundary while launching his Fascist legions eastwards against Russia.

Evidently Poland believes Hitler will fail to rupture the Franco-Soviet treaty and that the ultimate line-up of nations will find France and Russia in a winning combination.

New Fuel Uses

WHAT IMPRESSES ANY OB- server who surveys the scientific reports on fuels at the Third World Power Conference in Washington is the world-wide search for other fuel uses over and above the time-honored roles of heat and light.

In the search for new uses much attention is being devoted to the development of motor fuels from coal and gas. Germany, of course, has the famous Bergius hydrogenation process wherein coal can be turned into petroleum and its derivative gasoline, at will and under accurate control as to yields. Even on this continent where the need for this chemical fabrication of petroleum is not yet economically important, a variation of the technique turns the poorer grades of oil into high-grade gasoline.

From the German technical papers it is apparent that their scientists picture a future Germany dotted with filling stations—selling natural and manufactured gas for motor fuel. Plans for the construction of such gas stations are under way and a limited number of motor cars which can operate efficiently on the gas fuel will soon be marketed. The gas would be carried in steel tanks at 2,500 pounds to the square inch pressure.

Japan is not content merely with making gasoline from coal but is seeking further by-products and new methods of processing. After the gasoline is extracted Japanese chemists go on and obtain other products, including: Coke, paraffin and a number of synthetic chemicals.

Chemistry's Service

CHEMISTRY IS THE INSTIGATOR of benign revolutions and it is still capable of causing others. This impact of chemistry upon civilization has been one of the subjects discussed at the current Blackpool meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science.

The portion of chemistry that is labeled "organic" is relatively a modern development. C. J. T. Cronshaw, managing director, Imperial Chemical Industries, noted, although chemistry as a science has grown out of the earliest times. The discovery of mauve by Perkin and his commercial exploitation of his invention showed to the world the possibilities of this branch of chemistry, Mr. Cronshaw said. Upon this discovery Germany gradually erected a great and progressive industry. The uses of color in a modern civilized world are so varied that it is difficult for a person today to look back and realize the meagre uses of color before 1870. The success of the dyestuffs industry showed in a very clear way the importance of organic chemistry as a tool in a modern world.

The practice of medicine has been enriched. The whole range of local anaesthetics, many of the sleep-inducing compounds, and the sole remedy for sleeping sickness, are the results of this molecular architecture. Modern photography, particularly in the development of sensitizers, is the gift of this branch of chemistry. The ubiquity of the motor car, in its fuel and its tires, is a derived benefit from organic chemistry. It has given the textile industry two new fibres. Recently in its work on detergents and vitamins it still carries the torch.

Sir Henry Dale, head of Britain's Institute for Medical Research, told how in recent years chemistry has newly and rapidly invaded the fields of functional biology and the sciences related to medicine. Even in the study of the complex phenomena of immunity, the results of recent years have shown a beginning of exact description in terms of organic and physical chemistry. Up till about 1920 only some four hormones were known as separable entities, and of these only two had been chemically defined, he said. In the last few years a whole series has been chemically isolated, and several have been made artificially by synthesis. Of the vitamins, known a few years ago only by the effects of their absence, four or five have been chemically identified, and at least three have been artificially prepared. Sex hormones, one vitamin, carcinogenic substances, and heart tonics have all been chemically related to the typically inert sterols. New synthetic compounds of chemotherapeutic value give promise of control over some of the most deadly infections of man, especially in the tropics.

The whole orientation of therapeutics is being shifted from the effects to the causes of the disease. Sir Henry considers that this new and increasing domination of biological and medical research, by chemical methods and ideas, represents the greatest of all the services of chemistry to the community.

The Fairies' Palace

THE COMING TO VICTORIA OF Titania's Palace, to be on exhibition here from tomorrow until October 14, will mean more in the way of medical care for more crippled children receiving treatment on this island. The proceeds from the exhibition here will go to the Solarium, the only deductions being to cover the cost of shipping and packing and the expenses of the two expert attendants who travel with the palace.

This exquisite work of art, which is received everywhere as one of the marvels of man's miniature creation, has through its exhibitions in Britain, United States and other parts of the world during the last seven years raised more than $300,000 for crippled children's hospital funds. The month's exhibition of the Palace in Vancouver, just concluded, has netted $3,422 for the crippled children's charity fund of the Rotary Club there. A similarly satisfactory return from the exhibition in Victoria will encourage the devoted Solarium executive and the local Rotary Club committee, as it will gladden the heart of the kindly and whimsical Sir Neville Wilkinson, K.C.V.O., who retired after a distinguished career in his country's service to take upon himself the role of the "Fairy Princess's Secretary and Architect-in-Chief for the Royal Fairies' Palace."

A Fish Story

A Budapest daily tells this story—a fish story: An American fishing enthusiast flew in the airship "Hindenburg" to Frankfort-on-the-Main for one day only. After fishing for trout he went back in the airship to the United States. To newspaper reporters he declared that he was perfectly satisfied with the trip because he caught twelve trout. As the fare cost $820, each trout cost nearly $70.

This obviously ardent disciple of the late Mr. Isaak Walton, of course, can do what he likes with his money. If he feels that he has been well repaid by a trip to Germany for one day to catch twelve trout at nearly $70 apiece it is his own business. Having so distinguished himself, however, our suggestion is that he change his holiday plans for next year and come to Vancouver Island and try our waters for his piscatorial prowess.

If he wants any information on the subject of fishing hereabouts, he can get all he requires from the Tourist Trade Development Association, from the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau—or from such well-known screen stars as Warner Baxter, William Powell, Ned Sparks, and thousands of their fellow countrymen who are enamored of the charm of this "neck of the woods."

Notes

The way to keep from having an inferior race is to keep ahead of it.

"Time" is funny. It scornfully describes people who attended a hanging; then pictures the hanging for those who could not attend.

The Lord Mayor of London has suggested that Canadian mayors adorn their fatherly necks with chains of office. A change from the taxpayers to many of them now have on their necks.

"The League of Nations will have to be born again, and born differently, before it can deal with the revolute men who know its present impotence."—George Bernard Shaw. If it could be born with a full set of teeth, including those of wisdom, there might be some hope for it.

A Toronto newspaper has an editorial speculating on what Mrs. Beryl Markham must have been thinking of as she piloted her plane during the monotonous hours across the Atlantic. We know two pleasant things she did think about just after she had landed. They were the two cheques, $2,500 each; one from Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express in London and the other from Mr. Hearst's papers on this continent, in payment for her own story.

Mr. Leonard W. Brockington of Winnipeg, new chairman of the Canadian Radio Commission, was a law associate of ex-Premier Bennett in Calgary, but was appointed last week by Premier Mackenzie King. He has been an active director of the Calgary Symphony, an adjudicator in the drama festivals and is himself a natural radio personality. Gregory Clark of The Toronto Star sums him up as a man of discretion, a confidant of a former prime minister, an ardent time-server to symphony music and amateur drama, a lawyer, a city solicitor to Calgary for thirteen years, a radio personality of ten years' standing. Now, surrounded by editors, soldiers, writers, motion picture executives on his new board as lord of the Canadian air, a good detective would deduce that something is likely to be done in Canadian radio. But whether it means high-brow or low-brow, or bigger and stronger stations, or something sinewy and adventurous to shake the monotony of the severely familiar on the air—maybe Christmas will tell.

LOOSE ENDS

Apparently everyone falls hereabouts—there is no money available—we learn things at Fred's—Mr. Aberhart knows best—and we find a pioneer.

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

FAILURES

AS THIS NEWSPAPER continues to unfold the early ambitions of our leading citizens (along with quaint illustrations which show our notables in their rather callow-looking early years) one aspect of this important subject strikes you more and more. I mean to say, while not one of these gentlemen ever achieved his ambition, all ended up much better off than if they had achieved it. All were more successful than they wanted to be or expected to be. Compared with his ambition, each of them has been a brilliant success.

Indeed, as this series of articles goes on, I am beginning to wonder if anyone in Victoria ever failed. You would think, when there are men who wanted to be railway engineers, and ended up cabinet ministers, that there must be others who wanted to be cabinet ministers and ended up railway engineers. The trouble is, you never hear of them. You never hear of fellows like you and me, who started out so hopefully and ended up where we are. But if they started to interview us, the series would become too melancholy altogether.

NO MONEY

THE UNITED STATES government announces that it will spend a billion dollars on armaments in the next fiscal year. At this there is no complaint from the enemies of Mr. Roosevelt. It is quite all right to spend money to blow people up anywhere. Nobody objects. But try to spend it on public works to keep people eating and drinking, the opposition is down on you like a ton of bricks. At once the cry is raised that the country can't afford it, that the money isn't available.

It needed the present armament race in every country of the world, except this one, to dispel finally the fallacy that money isn't available for public expenditures. Until the armament race started governments, economists and financiers could always raise that cry. They could always reply, when the public asked for expenditures, and the unemployed asked for food, that they hadn't got the money.

Now this can never be said again. There is plenty of money for public works. There must be plenty for public works to create employment. And if, as seems likely, the nations are all going bankrupt anyway, they had better do it making roads than making shells. The shells will blow up; the roads will remain.

But, as a matter of cold fact, the money system of the world has been quietly revolutionized during the last few years, without the public suspecting it. It is now detached almost entirely from gold, a managed currency in most countries—what money was always intended to be, a symbol, a bookkeeping entry corresponding to the wealth of the country in the process of production, distribution and consumption. And at the moment there is so much money around that the Canadian banks are even going into the retail loaning business in a desperate effort to push out the huge accumulation of credits on their books—credits which are not money in the sense of gold reserves at all, but which are actual medium of exchange.

Yes, my poor friends: it is all very complicated, and nobody understands it but Mr. McGeer and Mr. Aberhart, and they won't tell. But, depend upon it, there is no lack of money, and if we had a war tomorrow it would be instantly available for blowing people up. Some day we may have enough sense to use it for other purposes.

EDUCATION

IT IS SURPRISING how much you can learn from crossword puzzles, so Fred tells me. Fred spends a good portion of each day working out crossword puzzles while people eat at his lunch counter. In fact, everybody who goes to Fred's place for lunch is getting educated whether he wants to or not. Most of us don't want to learn, but you can't not while Fred is working out crossword puzzles with the aid of a dictionary.

Every day he discovers some new, ten-cylinder word which surprises and appals the boys. Yesterday he discovered the River Styx, and it kept him happy all day. Somehow there is something beautiful about a discussion of the River Styx in a lunch counter, where ten men are eating liver and bacon and arguing about the races at the Willows. And today we discovered the word, "Ja-ha," which is not a horse laugh, as you suppose, but a sunken fence.

That is the kind of thing we learn at Fred's. That is the kind of thing the whole world is learning these days from the crossword puzzles. I tell you, if they can only keep this craze going long enough, the whole world will be educated and Shakespeare's vocabulary of 30,000 words will be exceeded by every man at Fred's lunch place. Already we've got a lot of words the bard never heard of. But he didn't miss much.

ABERHART

MR. ABERHART'S next move, he says, will be to license the newspapers, and this, of course, means censoring the newspapers. He wants to force them to tell the truth, and for this purpose the government is to be set up as the standard of truthfulness. There is room for a nice dispute as to the exact nature of truth here, for, if Mr. Aberhart knows the truth, he is unique among all the prophets of history. So far, no two of them have agreed on anything of importance, but the government of Alberta is going to cure all that. It is going to see that the newspapers say what it thinks, and that will be the truth.

The newspapers usually don't claim such omniscience as that possessed by the government of Alberta. They print what Mr. Aberhart thinks and what his enemies think and, finally, on their editorial pages, what they think. The public can take its choice. But if governments can control newspapers the public will have no choice. It will have to believe what governments say. But some people, having watched governments in the past, may have lingering doubts.

NOT NORMAL

YET I AM ASSURED by a man who knows about such things that normal times have not yet returned, despite all the business statistics. He tells me that in normal times Victoria supports large numbers of bootleggers all over the place; whereas now there is a pitifully few, for the bootlegger is one of the chief victims of the depression and, poor fellow, nobody stops to worry about him. My informant tells me he only knows of three places where you can phone up and get a bottle delivered in the evening or on holidays and it costs you $1.50 extra per bottle because the trade has dwindled so seriously that there isn't much profit in it for the operators. The service, too, is not really first class.

Not until there are dozens of bootleggers operating successfully on a reasonable margin of profit all over town can you say that the depression is really over. This, not the Bureau of Statistics, is the real thermometer of our economy, my expert-advisor assures me.

Elilbank's Remarks

From The Winnipeg Free Press

In an address in Toronto, Lord Elilbank rather overstepped the mark in suggesting that Canada should adopt a more active defence policy. He is a member of the House of Lords as well as being president of the British Chamber of Commerce; hence his public utterances are not those of an ordinary citizen.

The Canadian Press report of his address said that he "coupled advocacy of greater empire trade with a warning to Canada to devote some attention to defence of the Dominion against air attacks." The report quotes him as saying that both Great Britain and Canada would be drawn into the next war, that the deadly bombing planes now have a very wide range, and that he did not believe that Canada realized "the danger of possible air attack on your coastal ports in the same way as other countries have been forced to do."

This opinion, sincerely held by Lord Elilbank, was evidently intended as a bit of advice to Canada, and exception has been taken to it by Hon. Ian Mackenzie, Minister of Defence, presumably with the knowledge of the Prime Minister. Mr. Mackenzie's objection to the interference of outsiders in matters of Canadian public policy was warranted, though a slightly more tactful statement would have been just as effective.

Lord Elilbank's offence may seem to some to be not very serious, but he was venturing on forbidden ground and he invited the reproof given by a member of the Canadian government.

TOO MUCH EXPECTED OF TEACHERS

From The Toronto Daily Star

In Lindsay, the other day, the matter of teachers' spending their week-ends out of town was brought up, and the board chairman is quoted as saying that they should be "loyal to the community in which they are employed and should take part in the affairs of the town on Sundays as well as week days." He further stated that they should spend every cent they receive in Lindsay. The Bowmanville Statesman suggests that "the theory behind this expression" should be put into operation in Bowmanville, too.

But it is a theory of very doubtful value. No community can live to itself. If it wishes others to trade with it, it must trade with others. The wall-around-the-municipality policy is short-sighted, and it has been denounced in these columns when it has been proposed for Toronto. The Star has not approved Toronto's policy of compelling its civic employees to live within its own borders.

As for school teachers, they are hired to do a definite job just like anyone else, and are paid, usually, little enough for doing it, though in this respect Toronto has less to reproach itself with than most other communities. There are said, indeed, to be places, where the teacher is not only told that he or she will be expected to do his regular week-day work, but will be counted upon to teach a Sunday school class as well and contribute part of his or her pay to a church—in other communities it is very strongly hinted that, if the teacher is wise, such and such a boarding house will be chosen. These are unreasonable demands, but the surplus of teachers makes their enforcement possible.

Men and Pigeons

From A London Correspondent

THE RESIDENT population of the City of London continues to decline. Last year's total number of residents was 9,360, according to the report of Dr. W. M. Willoughby, City Medical Officer. The total in the 1931 census was 10,808 and in 1901 the number was 112,063.

The increase in the pigeon population is the disturbing factor in the report, Dr. Willoughby thinks. "The congregation of pigeons within the city," he says, "continues to be a source of nuisance and damage, and it is essential that continued efforts be directed in order that the number of these birds may be kept within reasonable limits." During 1935 a contractor destroyed 504 pigeons.

"There is considerable antagonism to the activities of the persons catching these birds," he adds, "but I would assure these well-meaning people that every care is taken to ensure that trapping is not attended by any element of cruelty."

It is a pity that London's pigeons do so much damage to buildings, as the great clouds of them over, for instance, Trafalgar Square, are a welcome sight to Londoners. Pigeons, particularly the black variety, are also a menace to buildings in the city, Dr. Willoughby says. A firm of professional rat catchers caught 16,553 during 1935 and a firm of caterers made a catch of 3,901.

Buildings can be made rat-proof, he points out, but workmen must know intimately the habits and agility of rats in order for it to be successful. Pigeons are not to be recommended as floors frequently have to be taken up, to find and remove the dead rats.

THERE SHOULD BE NETS

From The Ottawa Journal

At Kitchener not long ago a girl fell to the ground from a trapeze in a circus and died of her injuries. Last week at the Toronto Exhibition a girl was shot from a cannon, something went wrong with the mechanism, she fell short of the two men stationed to catch her and was seriously injured. There should be an end to such "death-defying" spectacles, unless by nets or otherwise the danger of injury or death to the performers can be removed. There may be less thrill to the spectators if a net is stretched to save the performer a bad fall, but safety should be the first consideration. A contemporary states that in Great Britain trapeze performers are not allowed to operate without nets. A similar law in this country seems warranted by recent accidents.

NOT USING BRAINS

From The Barmia Observer

The so-called experts on mental matters are insistent that people generally are not using a tenth part of their brain capacity and they believe that if they did, the result would be amazing in the way of achievement. Their opinion is that the outstanding leaders in various human activities are simply those who have learned how to use a slightly larger percentage of their mental endowments than the average.

THE ANNOUNCERS

From The London Observer

Is there any reason why the B.B.C. announcers should wrestle nightly with the problems of the Spanish and the Danes? They do not pronounce Dan as Paree or Florence as Firenze, why not Valladolid and Saragossa as we have known them? It is surely a mistake to be pedantic in patches.

CONVERSATIONS ON THE TELEPHONE

(From The Saturday Review of Literature)
Instant communication. This is the modern torture. The body jerked from its relaxed position, precipitated without will into a situation it can perceive. With one voice only. The tension of the ear. Open and innocent. Toward whatever voice. Leaps out. Inviting to a cocktail. Or a sale of Chelsea. Announcing love. It will pounce like a hawk. Catching the mouse of anguish. At it tries to run. It will suddenly stop. No cry, no clamor bring it back. No way of knowing where. In what room in what city. The disembodied creature. Has departed. Laughing or weeping. This is the alicing off of ears. And cutting tongues. The crust modern severance. Or one part from another. As it clutches a dead instrument. And is asked "what number?"

Defence of Canada

Local League Sets Forth Its Purposes and Its Plan of Organization

To the Editor:—On behalf of the Defence of Canada League I beg to thank you for the kind consideration and publicity you have given us through your newspaper. There are certain points, however, that should be made clear to those who are interested in such a movement. The objects of the D.C.L. as endorsed by the association are as follows:

1. To bring to the attention of the Canadian people the defenceless condition of their country.
2. To urge the government of the Dominion of Canada to provide adequate land, sea and air defences for Canada.
3. Upon the attainment of these objectives, to bring continuously before the Canadian people and the Canadian government, the necessity of the work being maintained and strengthened.

At present there are temporary national officers elected so as to expedite the work in hand. Until such time as the movement has become nation wide and properly approved officers are elected. The Victoria division (No. 1) of the D.C.L. has been properly formed with duly elected officers and with a duly proved and concisely worded constitution. Naturally we need and will heartily welcome members and helpers who are willing to sacrifice some time and thought to the defence and protection of Canada, her homes and her people. Sovereign nations violate amongst the other nations of the British empire. Because a national effort is being made by at present only a few devoted men and women under the caption of the Defence of Canada League.

We have full confidence in making this appeal to the thinking public, that our need is immediate and has to be met and remedied without delay. We bitterly deplore the appalling lack of knowledge or apathy that have made the governments of Canada consider as a side issue, a preponderating matter of such magnitude that it affects its very existence as an independent nation.

Remember, that the apathy, or lack of sacrifice during peacetime, must be paid for in blood in the event of war. And that this is the most important and far reaching movement made in Canada in fifty years. However much apathy there may be, surely the facts placed before the public by its newspapers of all shades of opinion, urging the public to take heed before it is too late, should break down the appalling lack of interest. The Columnist in a leading editorial of September 12, 1936, said: "The Royal Canadian Airforce has ten modern fighting machines. Canada's heaviest fighting ship is a destroyer and her army is a corporal's guard." Less than any fourth class little South American Republic. Such a condition amounts to a conspiracy of neglect, and no excuse will palliate the fault of those who were in authority to attend to this vital need. There is no reason why Canada should have come to such a pass amongst the nations of the empire.

We have started this Defence of Canada League with the unswerving intention of carrying it to a successful conclusion and issue. We know that the loyal public, loyal to their adopted country or the country they were born in, who love Canada, and have the best interests of Canada and the British Empire at heart, will join us in this noble, unselfish movement for the protection of their homes, their ideals and their faith.

TAKING DEFEAT UNGRACEFULLY

To the Editor:—Since the Burrard by-election I have heard many reports about the attitude of the good "Capitalist" Doctor Telford.

Dr. Patterson, on his defeat, congratulated the winner, the Liberal candidate, Mr. Forster. Dr. Telford, however, has quite a different conception of sportsmanship. For the good doctor said he would not on any consideration congratulate the victor. Besides this, the good doctor turned on those who before the election he could not do too much for, declaring that they were poor Christians, poor Christians because they would not vote for atheism and a materialistic conception of life.

The rash remarks that Dr. Telford made on learning of his defeat have done a lot to convince those who were on the border that the C.C.F. is not sincere and is more concerned with vote-catching and establishing its dictatorship than it is with helping the toiling masses, the masses being a means to the end.

The good doctor should learn to take his defeat gracefully, for after he is through with politics, there may be others who would wish to run under the C.C.F. banner, and it is they who will have to argue their way out from under his outspoken words.

For my part, I am glad he spoke as he did, for it points clearly to the demagoguery and vote-catching opportunism of the C.C.F.

AN AMUSING WORLD

To the Editor: This is a strange world. I picked up the Victoria Times of September 14. Hitler is advocating an international crusade against Communism. The Pope claims that all culture and civilization is threatened by Communism. On an inside page some bigot, signing himself Vigilante, has written a letter of hate directed against radicals and Communists.

For some years I have been interested in Communism. Both its historical growth and economic theories are interesting. The outcome of the present immense experiment being conducted in Soviet Russia is of importance for the world. Most official members of the Communist party are no fools: nor is it an accident that in most colleges the best scholars are the most sympathetic towards Communism.

Now I hold no brief for Communism except that common sense would seem to dictate investigation before denunciation. I wonder if Vigilante is holding something back? Does he perhaps possess confidential information, which, if only he could reveal it, would show us the error of our ways? Or is he merely the victim of his own imagination and the misinformation deliberately fostered by certain maddens of public opinion? Why should the waving of a red flag put him into such tantrums?

Vigilante is dismayed that Fabian socialists, a minority group, should seek to gain key positions and extend their power. This is serious. Has Vigilante ever heard of the capitalist technique of holding companies and interlocking directorates?

Vigilante does not cite his authority for stating that $46,000,000 was spent in one year for Bolshevik propaganda. A friend of mine, who just spent three quarters studying propaganda methods at Stanford, says that Communist propaganda in the States is not as good as the capitalist. He says that an accurate definition of propaganda is almost impossible, but that, for most people, it is any type of influence that they dislike. Hence I don't suppose Vigilante would class as propaganda the space that Hearst devotes to attacking Communism. Or the time given over by General Motors to the radio to talks on "The American System." Or a certain comic strip, "Merchants' Association." Or, for that matter, Vigilante's own letter.

Many people in the world today are terribly afraid of Communism. This fear has been purposely aroused in them. Perhaps somebody had better write to The Times and explain what it is we are supposed to fear.

CARRICK STREET.

FLIGHT OF THE CLERGY

From The Winnipeg Free Press

Judging from the press reports, one of the discussions most tenaciously engaged in at the conference of the United Church at Brandon was that of depression-ravaged ministers. At least one of the laymen had so far the courage of his convictions as to suggest that the depression story had been overworked. Communities which were starving their churches had been able to afford other things which they evidently valued more. Beyond a doubt there is something in the defence immediately brought forward that agricultural incomes had fallen so drastically that the usual subscriptions were not possible to secure. Nevertheless it is well that the United Church as well as other church organizations are taking cognizance of the situation.

Rev. J. W. Clarke took up especially the case of ministers in the dried-out areas of this province who he said had been the forgotten men left at their post with no relief until their morale had been broken. There are stories of these areas which indicate that, through these difficult years, the churches and its ministers have stood by to the best of their ability and have borne a large portion of the burden and heat of the day. Those who have not lived through the days and weeks and years in these stricken districts can have no conception of what the load has meant. The minister at any time has numerous calls upon his nervous energy, but in these years other people's troubles have been brought to his door in a constant stream, and very often he was called upon to give what was his own need of help was as great as that of those beseeching him.

There are other communities and many more of them in Manitoba which, feeling the economic pressure, have made their first saving off the church. Teachers have had their difficulties during these years and these have been widely advertised. Very little has been said about the plight of the clergy. It is high time this situation was given an airing. There is strong support for the Rev. G. B. Freeman's position that congregations who cannot pay an adequate minimum salary should not be allowed to call a minister. The setting of a minimum salary governed by certain conditions under jurisdiction of the church board as decided by the conference is a necessary one if fitting dignity of office is to be maintained. The announcement of this policy will be encouraging news to hundreds of ministers who have been attempting to carry on under the most heart-sickening circumstances.

MR. ECKMAN CONSIDERS SPAIN.

To the Editor:—They may call it Communism or Fascism, but it is the same old dog in new clothes," truly remarked The Times in its "Notes" of the 21st of last month. Political Russia, Germany and Italy display to us a spirit of despotism and intolerance similar to that which characterized religious Spain of the sixteenth century. The many and affairs this world has witnessed since the fall of man are the outcome of his desire to either improve on God's laws or to do without them; either can be done with impunity!

True as it is that beauty is only skin deep," so is our civilization often a mere polish showing up, at the least friction, the wickedness of unregenerated man's heart. The horrors perpetrated during this twentieth century by nations belonging to our Western civilization go to prove that the material progress we boast about, when obtained at the expense of Godliness, is fatal to humanity, for while during the last century the tide of materialism has been flowing in rapidly, the tide of morality and spirituality has been ebbing out at the same rate of speed, leaving mankind in every respect, much the worse for it.

What we now witness, for instance, in Spain is the bad outcome of the fanatical desire to impose a religion having only in common unbridled hatred expressed in quasi-unrestrained ferocity and cruelty, engineered by the one and self-same Satanic agency!

Truly, a man without God, or even without a right comprehension of God, is as a ship without a rudder, or as a motor car on an incline without brakes! Man is crying out for a dictator, a superman, to lead him on,

NATIONAL DEFENCE COST

To the Editor:—Your editorial "Mind Your Own Business" reminds one of the individual who, on being advised by a medical friend as to what to do to ward off and protect himself against the world-wide influenza epidemic, replied that he was not to be dictated to; that when he and his family needed help and advice they would ask for it.

The doctor replied: "Yes, but do not apply to me then, as I am not to be dictated to either as to whether I'll render you help or not in your hour of need."

Canada's 11,000,000 "knitters" pay $1.20 per year per capita for national defence, and are depending on the British Navy and the U.S.A. to protect her. Australia, with about half of Canada's population is paying (according to The Times) $44,045,000 per year for national defence.

Does The Times "tell us, quite properly, that by implication 11,000,000 Canadians are quite capable" and unashamed of being a nation of bums?

What does it matter where good advice comes from, or who better can criticize us fairly than the outsider?

W. F. MACKIE,
Duncan, B.C.

Soil erosion is blamed for spoiling many fine fishing streams, since some game fish cannot thrive in muddy, debris-filled water.

Autumn Tints At Church Wedding

Miss Evelyn Florence Married To Mr. Wm. John Holman

Autumn flowers in lovely profusion were used in decoration of the First United Church yesterday evening for the wedding of two popular civil servants, Evelyn Victoria, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James G. Florence, 2415 Quadra Street, and Mr. William John Holman, second son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Holman, 1156 North Park Street.

Standard baskets of asters, sinias, goldenrod, and chrysanthemums backed the pulpit, the bride and groom standing beneath a white arch decorated with asters and sinias; white-pink blossoms, tied with white tulle, marked the guest pew. The decorations were the handwork of girl friends of the bride.

BRIDE IN SATIN
Rev. E. F. Church officiated in the presence of a large congregation. Mr. Edward Parsons presided at the organ, and as the register was being signed, accompanied Mr. Nelson Hicks, who sang "Because."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride, an attractive brunette, wore a lovely princess gown of ivory bridal satin, fastened with a long train, a corset neck-line and long tight sleeves. Her veil of filmy net had a deep edging of lace, and was embroidered at each corner with seed pearls and lovers' knots of silk, and was worn with a halo of tulle and orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses, gardenias and white heather.

TWO ATTENDANTS
There were two attendants, gowned alike in charming taffeta frocks, with skirts flaring below the hips to floor-length, edged with accordion-pleated frills, and worn with shoulder capes, edged with accordion pleating and fastened back and front with ribbon bows. Narrow sashes with butterfly bows at the back encircled the waists.

Miss "Boo" Wilson, the maid of honor, wore apple green, relieved with rose pink, and Miss Lucy Muriel Huxley, the bridesmaid, wore rose pink with apple green accessories. They also wore picture hats of mohair in contrast to their gowns trimmed with ribbon and silver sandals, and carried shower-bouquets of pink carnations, roses and mauve scabious.

Mr. Cecil Holman supported his brother, and Mr. Samuel Smith and Mr. Jack Bacon were ushers.

BIG RECEPTION
After the ceremony a largely attended reception was held in the Knights of Columbus Hall, Government Street, which was effectively decorated with pink and green. The young couple received the felicitations of their friends beneath an arch hung with a silver wedding bell and flanked by baskets of autumn blossoms.

The parents of the principals welcomed the many guests. Mrs. Florence wearing a gown of royal blue georgette and lace, and a black velvet hat with a blue feather mount, and Mrs. Holman in navy blue cut velvet, and a matching hat, their costumes being completed with corsage sprays of roses.

Supper was served from a table decorated with vases of Ophelia roses and centered with the four-tiered cake, made and presented by the bride's uncle, Mr. G. Florence, Nanaimo, which was cut by the bride after her health had been proposed by Mr. H. V. Lane, an old family friend.

LOVELY GIFTS
After a honeymoon spent in Vancouver, Seattle and Portland, Mr. and Mrs. Holman will make their home at 1156 Pandora Avenue. For traveling, the bride chose a black and white tulle frock, and a grey and black coat with a wolf collar and black accessories.

Among the many handsome gifts was a silver tea and coffee service on a Sheffield tray, accompanied by a leather-bound volume containing the names of all members of the Lands Department, of which the bride and groom have been members for a number of years.

The out-of-town guests included Mr. Allan and Mrs. Bobbie and Gordon, Port Renfrew; Mrs. Ninnies Tacoma; Mr. George Florence and Miss Bernice Boothroyd, Nanaimo.

Chandler. She expressed her thanks in a few well-chosen words. Games and singing were enjoyed, the winners of the contests being Ida Pearce and Lucy Harding. The pianists for the evening were Edith Harding and Helen McKinnon. Refreshments were served from a table centered with a glass flower basket containing mauve asters and white dahlias, flanked on each side by mauve candles in silver holders. A large cake, kindly donated by Mrs. Linskill, centered with a miniature bride and groom, held the place of honor. The evening was brought to a close with the singing of "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow."

The invited guests were: Mesdames Tatham, Linskill, Leby, Lunt, and the Misses Ella Braidwood, Ruth Braidwood, Ida Pearce, Christine Reid, Marion Linskill, May Medler, Edith and Lucy Harding, Hilda Ham, Margaret and Helen McKinnon, Micky Smith, Nellie Green, Frances, Ethel and Laura Tatham.

Mrs. Arthur Wells, who has been staying at Cadboro Bay, has now taken up her residence at 2108 Central Avenue, Oak Bay.

Major Alan Swinton of Victoria is visiting in Winnipeg, the guest of his mother-in-law, Mrs. H. G. Hubbell.

The marriage took place on September 12 at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. H. W. Hughes, Raynor Avenue, of Lorna May Hughes and Mr. Kenneth L. Roach, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Roach, Victoria. Rev. A. deB. Owen officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in white satin with a veil of embroidered silk net flowing from a halo of orange blossoms. Her bouquet was of sweet peas and baby's breath. Miss June McMillan, sister of the bride, wore a gown of flowered nylon with hat of matching shade and carried a bouquet of mauve sweet peas.

Little Betty Pope, the flower girl, was in a dainty white frock and carried a basket of bridal roses. Mr. Oswald Hoskins supported the bridegroom, and Mr. Stanley Jackson was usher.

Lady Reading Impressed By U.S.A.

Talked With All Kinds And Enjoyed Hospitality

Associated Press

New York, Sept. 17.—The Dowager Marchioness of Reading ended a 10,000-mile incognito tour of the United States today, impressed by "a freedom of life and a delight in work," which she found among the people.

She sailed for England on the Aquitania, concluding a visit that began in May.

The marchioness attended the two major political conventions, was a guest at the White House and of other friends in the east and south, then set out by automobile to get a first-hand glimpse of life in the United States and what Americans thought about it.

She did not disclose her identity at any time, she said, and talked to business men, workers, farmers, persons of all walks of life in twenty-eight states.

Lady Reading said her tour was prompted by the love of her late husband, the Marquess of Reading, for the United States.

Lord Balfour Lost Only Love

Niece's Biography Tells Why He Never Married

By THOMAS T. CHAMPION

Canadian Press Staff Writer
London, Sept. 17.—Why Lord Balfour, the great Conservative Prime Minister, never married was revealed today in his biography by his niece, Blanche Dugdale.

He was in love for five years with May Lytleton, sister of the famous cricketer brothers of that name, one of whom became Colonial Secretary. (A Lytleton was Colonial Secretary during part of the Balfour government's term of office, 1902-1905.) She died when Balfour was about to ask her to marry him.

He had delayed the question, fearing refusal.

Following the news of her death, Balfour walked for hours through the streets of London. He asked that an emerald ring left him by his mother, which he had hoped to give May as an engagement token, be placed in her coffin.

Balfour never divined her true feelings for him, the biography says. "I can recall May's happy face when 'A. J. B.' had spoken to her in a way which she must have entirely understood," she writes.

Card Party.—The Esquimaux W.I. will hold its fortnightly card party this evening at 8:15 o'clock in St. Paul's Parish Hall.

Ministering Circle.—The Ministering Circle of the King's Daughters will hold their monthly sewing meeting at the home of Mrs. W. H. Wilders, 316 Linden Avenue, on September 23.

Guides' Tea.—A silver tea will be held at Mrs. Thorne Hughes, 1259 Richardson Street, on Saturday afternoon, September 19, from 3 to 6 o'clock. The tea is in aid of company funds for the 2nd West Victoria Girl Guides. There will be home cooking and candy stalls.

Emmanuel W.A.—The regular monthly meeting of the Emmanuel Women's Auxiliary was held recently at the home of Mrs. A. B. Boyer, Wilmet Street. The president, Mrs. Walter Wilson, presided, and Mrs. S. Crowther led the devotional. Plans for fall activities were discussed and arrangements completed for a sale of home cooking to be held in Spencer's basement on October 24. Refreshments and a social time followed the business session. The next meeting will be held at the home of Miss Marion Jameson, Lanadowne Road.

Now over seventy years old, Mrs. Richardson is perhaps more active than ever before in her long career. She has three married children and several grandchildren, but nevertheless she travels thousands of miles each year, gathering material and addressing women's organizations. In one recent tour she traveled 13,000 miles in three months, visiting twenty-seven cities and speaking before thousands of men and women. The past summer she spent in England.

Mrs. Richardson wrote her first article for The Women's Home Companion in 1903, after an extensive newspaper career, and has been connected with the magazine ever since. She inaugurated the first magazine department devoted to the interests of business girls early in the century; later founded the Better Babies Bureau, which was responsible for much of the modern health work among mothers and infants, and in 1920 when women were enfranchised in the United States she inaugurated the Good Citizenship Bureau, which of late years has become a clearing house for women's organizations.

During her current tour Mrs. Richardson will visit Victoria, Vancouver, Lake Louise, Banff, Calgary, Edmonton, Colonsay, Regina, Winnipeg, Toronto, Ottawa, and Montreal.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

The war between the generations is no fiction but an ever present and unpleasant fact. Most often it is the young mother who complains of the dictatorial policies of her mother or mother-in-law. In this case it is the other way round.

"I am the grandmother of a boy of three. My daughter never makes him go to bed until 10 or after. Sometimes it is after twelve. As a child she always had an afternoon nap and an early bedtime."

"She calls my ideas old fashioned. She has an idea that if he lies in bed, that is rest enough, and even when he is tired and begs to go to bed she keeps him up until she has finished some story. Then when he is cross she spansks him. Perhaps if you would write strongly enough about this, she would see her mistakes."

"I'm afraid, despite your faith in me, that I could have little influence upon a mother, who, to put it mildly, sounds both stubborn and selfish. There is a possibility that having been made to go to bed early so rankled in her memory that she is determined not to subject her child to the same tyranny."

What one cannot understand is her disregard of the child's own pleas. Also, her criticism of you is amusing to say the least, for yours was the first generation of mothers who made a cult of early bedtimes and regular naps, and these ideas aren't old enough to be out of fashion.

I shall be happy to send you "Hours of Sleep," which may be indirectly helpful in showing her the advantages of early bedtimes for children. A rest period is all right in daytime, when the boy has an early bedtime which might be upset by a too-lengthy afternoon nap. Give her her right in plausible contentions, and she may be more considerate of yours.

CHURCHILLS SAIL FOR U.S.

Winston's Son and Daughter Depart; Wedding Rumors Refuted

Canadian Press from Havas

Southampton, Sept. 17.—Randolph Churchill, son of the statesman, Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, sailed for the United States yesterday on R.M.S. Queen Mary, twenty-four hours after his twenty-one-year-old sister, Sarah, had departed on the liner Bremen.

Jenny Nicholson, a daughter of the poet, Robert Graves, and co-performer with Miss Churchill in the musical revue, "Follow The Sun," said Miss Churchill would likely be married in New York to Vic Oliver, orchestra leader, who also was in "Follow The Sun."

Miss Nicholson said Miss Churchill's parents had disapproved both of her stage career—so far confined to a chorus—and to her planned marriage to Oliver. She added: "Sarah's my greatest friend."

Woman With Stone Heart Is Dead

San Francisco, Sept. 17.—Mrs. Regina Drany, "the woman with the stone heart," is dead.

Kept alive a year and a half after a delicate operation, the forty-year-old woman died from calcification of the heart muscles here yesterday. The lady is rare, physicians stating her case was one of only six on record in medical history.

Last year Mrs. Drany, wife of a San Francisco attorney, was spared death when three physicians chipped away a layer of calcium that was impeding her heart action. The doctors, Harold Brunas, A. L. Brown and George Hartmann, cut a "window" in the patient's chest to reach the heart muscles, around which the stone-like layer was encrusted.

Her partial recovery was rapid and within a few days she was able to sit in a wheelchair.

The growth, however, continued, and she was brought here recently after her heart action was greatly impeded. This time the stone had encroached too far.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

BOOTS RABURN, eighteen, elopes with DENIS LIND, handsome swimmer, instructor, and almost immediately realises the marriage is a mistake. When Russ goes to Florida, promising to send for her later, she goes to work in a department store.

She meets DENIS PENWAY, young author, and EDWARD VAN SCIVER, wealthy and socially prominent.

Months pass, and Russ does not write. Then word comes that he has been killed in a motorboat accident.

Through Denis Boots gets a job in a book shop. Her mother comes to tell her that her father has had a stroke. Boots realises her parents need financial help and goes home to live.

On Christmas Eve she arrives home after a long day in the shop and finds Denis waiting for her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XII

The room had been whirling around Boots. Now it righted itself again and she was herself—pale, tired, a little shabby, in her old blue hat, her fingers locked around an armful of bundles. She was in the doorway of the living room with its Chinese ginger jars and its faded rug and Denis Penway was staring at her.

"I'm at Lois's for Christmas," he said easily. "They went over to hear the carols and I took a walk and thought I'd drop in for a minute."

"Stay and have a bite of supper with Barbara," her mother urged cordially. "It's just baked beans and cold slaw and tea."

He was taking the bundles from her now. His hand took the coat from her shoulders. He was following her into the dining room, where the cloth blazed white on the table and the domed and lozenge centre fixture, Boots was in a daze. She moved and spoke and laughed in the way that she had in this warmth and shabbiness and homeliness was the sheerest ecstasy. She might as well enjoy it while she could. Later, after he had gone, the knife might twist in her heart. But for the present the food she ate was ambrosia, the jokes they all made were triumphs of rare wit. She was neither conscious of weariness nor the passage of time.

Every time Denis glanced in her direction, every time his low laugh rang out she was conscious of a wave of pure happiness washing over her like a tide. This was being alive—to be aware of every syllable, every slightest glance and inflection.

"More salad?" Her mother's look enfolded her. The girl leaned back with a long sigh.

"Oh, I couldn't. I've had so much. It was all so good and I was starved."

Denis glanced at her sideways, considering. Under her pallor she fairly glowed.

"Work agrees with you."

She fixed, glancing away. "Think so? Thanks. By the way I don't believe I ever thanked you for giving me that chance with Mr. Masterson."

He waved a careless hand. "I knew you'd suit him once he saw you."

Happiness, happiness, washing over her, flooding her very being. "I knew you'd suit him. It was a charity enough compliment to be sure, but the words clattered in her mind; she treasured them.

"Why don't you put me out?" Denis drew a few moments later when, established in deep chairs before the fire Miss Florida had laid with painstaking hands, they faced each other.

"Barging in here on Christmas Eve—It's inexcusable. And you have things to do, haven't you?"

If she had, she had forgotten them all. Make him stay a little while, God, she prayed in her heart. I've had so little of him ever, and when he's sweet like this, gentle and quiet and happy, with that grim look gone out of his eyes, let him stay.

Edward's big hammer stood imposing and unpacked in the hall. Her mother and Miss Florida murmured softly over the dishes in the kitchen. Upstairs her father dozed over his pipe. And the village was gay with lights on outdoor trees, with lamps lighted in all the little houses. In this dimly lighted room the girl and the man sat on. He roused himself to say in a silence: "I was a beast that last night I saw you. Thought of it often. Hope you forgive me."

Her breath came and went quickly but she kept her voice steady.

"That was all right. Just one of those things."

"I'd been at Kay's," he was remembering aloud. "Rotten party. She hadn't been nice to me for days. Kay's a thing really," he interpolated, "but when she gets into a vicious mood you can't do a thing with her. She'd said something about you and Edward getting on like a house afire. I don't know why it made me mad, but it did. I was in a bad mood. There I'd had some villainous cocktails, too. It just set me off. I was at the time to drop in and offer you my advice. I don't know why I behaved as I did. But I'm sorry. Say you forgive me."

With an effort, she throttled her anger. So he'd come to her, held her in his arms for an instant because he had been at Kay's. "That was all right," she said. "I was remembering aloud. 'Rotten party. She hadn't been nice to me for days. Kay's a thing really,' he interpolated, 'but when she gets into a vicious mood you can't do a thing with her. She'd said something about you and Edward getting on like a house afire. I don't know why it made me mad, but it did. I was in a bad mood. There I'd had some villainous cocktails, too. It just set me off. I was at the time to drop in and offer you my advice. I don't know why I behaved as I did. But I'm sorry. Say you forgive me.'"

There was a square, squat box on her dressing table, addressed in Edward's angular hand. Boots regarded it dreadingly. Dear Edward! He would always do the correct thing; send her presents for her anniversaries; remember her preference in food and scent. She would never have any heartaches with Edward, probably. He was the faithful type. He had said so, himself. This other—this dark-browed, nervous-fingered young man with the deep voice—was the sort after whom women ran. You never knew where you were with the Denis Penways of this world, thought Boots savagely. She stepped out of her wrinkled woolen frock and stood, slim, deliciously curved, in her tailored slip. She frowned at herself in the oval mirror. She was repulsive looking, she reflected, yet Denis seemed never really to see her. Even when he had kissed her he had been thinking of Kay, punishing Kay.

At the thought, her heart-shaped face, framed in its pale gold hair, flushed rosily. The flush ran down over her creamy skin, to the little hollow dipping between her breasts. She flung a hand over her eyes.

"Aren't you going to open your box?" Her mother's voice recalled her to the present. "Child, live, you'll catch your death. The furnace has been banked for half an hour. You know how cold the house gets."

Boots snatched her wooly robe and flung it over her shoulders. Yes, she would open Edward's gift—for her mother's delectation, at least.

The box lid, laid back, revealed a creamy string of small pearls, perfectly matched. Mrs. Raburn's faded eyes lighted at sight of them.

"Barbara, they're beautiful! You lucky, lucky girl!"

Miss Florida had to come in then, her thin, homely face glowing from its recent scrubbing. She had to be shown the treasure and echoed the sentiment.

"You're a very fortunate child. I declare. I never saw anything more handsome."

Alone in her room later, Boots stared at the costly little globules slipping through her fingers. She would have rarer things, finer things than these from Edward's generous hands. The pearls were a symbol of her life to come.

She knelt down by the bed. "Please, God, make me worthy of him. He deserves something better than this. But make me love him as much as he loves me."

It was her second prayer that night. First for Denis, now for Edward. But she would put Denis out of her heart for ever. That was the only way.

Kay had been "vixenish," had he? Oh, why, why must he spoil his apology with Kay's name?

"That was all right," she told him equally. And then, striving to keep her voice commonplace, she went on, "How is Kay?"

His smile flashed at her. "Splendid! She's gone home—to England, you know—for Christmas. Coming back in several weeks. I miss her."

Drums, drums throbbing now in her head and a dull, sick pain in her heart. Of course she wouldn't be seeing him now if Kay weren't away. Kay, with her elegance and her arrogantly lifted brows and her scented, finished beauty.

He got to his feet. "Lots will wonder what happened to me. It was good of you to let me come in and stay a while. Say goodnight to your mother for me, won't you?"

Her smile was perfection. Her manner had just the right shade of casualness. But after the doozy had closed behind him she stood, actually trembling with emotion—with anger. He had upset her hard-won composure by coming here tonight. Lightly, she had strode in and out of her life. Just the supposed everything was settled and she was definitely committed to her future with Edward, he appeared, causing her pulses to thud and her mind to whirl.

Mrs. Raburn came out into the hall. "Mr. Penway gone, dear?" She managed a smile. "I just shut the door after him. You must be dead."

"I am a bit tired. You don't want to unpack that hamper tonight child? Never mind—the morning will do as well. We'd better set it in the pantry. It's marked perishable. Fill that Kitty down cellar so she can't get at it."

They mounted the stairs together. Miss Florida was splashing happily in the bathroom. They could hear her thin voice above the roar of the faucet, singing "The Palms."

"Daddy's asleep," the mother said contentedly after a glance into the big front bedroom. "He sleeps well—that's a great mercy. I must say. He had a good day."

I'm a fool and an ingrate to bother about Denis Penway. Boots told herself passionately, when mother is content with so little. Just a roof over her head and enough food to eat and the assurance that all of us are alive and moderately well.

There was a square, squat box on her dressing table, addressed in Edward's angular hand. Boots regarded it dreadingly. Dear Edward! He would always do the correct thing; send her presents for her anniversaries; remember her preference in food and scent. She would never have any heartaches with Edward, probably. ## MANY THRILLS AT HORSE SHOW

Jumping Brings Applause From 500 Spectators at Opening Night

Stallions prancing in time with the music and graceful thoroughbreds skimming over hurdles presented a feast of horsemanship for 500 spectators who attended the opening of the Horse Show at the Willows, yesterday evening.

The featured event of the programme was probably the Touch-and-Out event which was divided between Bob Shank's Chequise and the Victoria Riding Academy's Irish Jury and Baldy. The crowd got many thrills when competitors leaped a triple bar with a six foot spread, one of the obstacles in this class.

The Victoria Course was interesting with a dozen horses weaving their way over a maze of jumps including a pig pen, a picket fence, a stone wall and a triple bar. As this class is jumped each night of the show, the total number of points counting, no winner was announced.

Jackie Russell, fifteen-year-old rider from Vancouver, gave an exhibition jump, dwarfed by his mount. He nevertheless showed good control in clearing a five foot bar. The height of the jump will be raised each night.

The Crystal Dairy, Vancouver, showed a clean pair of heels in the two-horse team class, taking both first and second places. J. W. Munro, Delta, Alberta, was third.

Warrior ridden by little Cynthia Yarrow took the first prize for ponies under saddle. Barbara Jackson on Kittiwake II placed second, while the aged Kobay who the judge said was twenty-five years old, with young Drum Carley holding the reins came third.

A large class of spirited steeds was entered for the Best Pair of Saddle Horses which fell to Thistle Miller and Baldy with Miss Theresa Todd and O. B. McConnon on top. Max and Goldie were runners up while Manist and Ard Patrick, two of the largest horses came third.

In the saddle horses, Baldy, owned by the Victoria Riding Academy, won with Maid of the Mist second. Mandelay was third.

Topping the hurdles neatly, Chango ridden by Theodore Todd, won from thirteen others in the Ladies' Hurdles. Pop Over and Sonny Boy came second and third in a class which called for jumps over a bush and bar.

The Hunting Pairs event drew applause with mounts leaping abreast over brush hurdles. Mrs. D. B. Carley displayed skillful horsemanship in whipping her companion's horse over the hurdle to send her team to the top of the list. Harrah Kne and Chief, and Sonny Boy and Silver were second and third.

Mental Disease Strikes All Equally

Albany, N.Y., Sept. 17.—Foreign-born persons of New York state are no more subject to mental disease than are native Americans, it is now made for difference in age and environment, reports Dr. Benjamin Maltzberg, of the New York State Department of Mental Hygiene, in the American Journal of Psychiatry.

Although the average annual rates of first admissions to mental hospitals seem to indicate that the cases of mental disease among foreign-born are twice as numerous as among native Americans, these figures are misleading, Dr. Maltzberg declares. The foreign-born are older, on the average, than the natives and consequently have had more chance to develop mental disease. They are also more concentrated in cities, where mental disease, or at least hospitalization for it, is more common.

Doctor Finds Cause of Piles

After years of study, Dr. J. S. Leonard found what causes and aggravates piles in the great majority of cases. It is an internal congestion, holding back return blood flow from the lower bowel with increasing pain and misery.

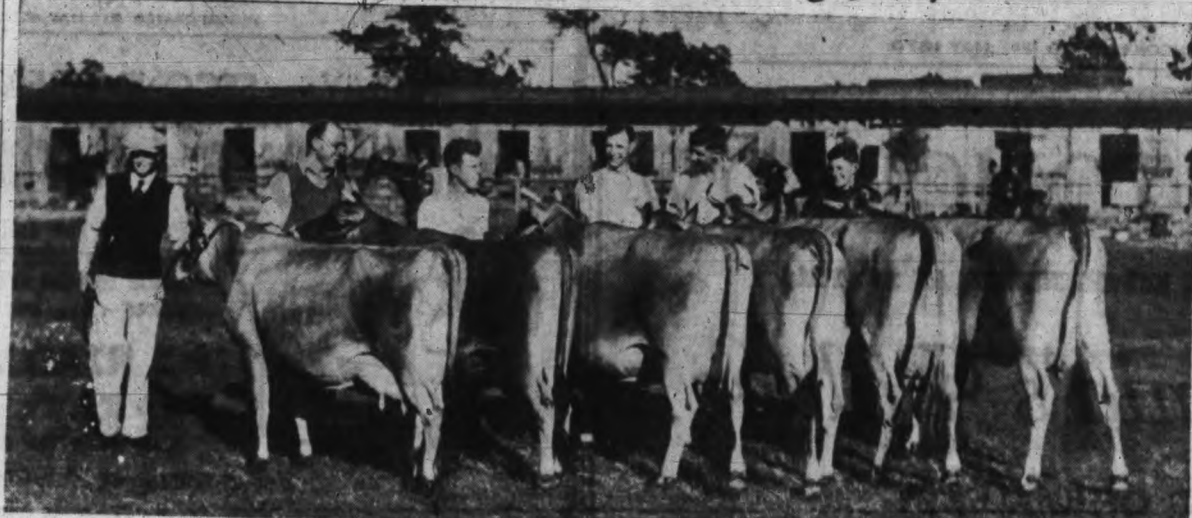

Dr. Leonard also found that external applications, salves, ointments, and suppositories did not usually give more than slight relief, as they did not treat the cause of piles.

Piles being generally due to an internal congestion should have internal medication, so Dr. Leonard worked out a prescription to be used internally. He named it Hem-Roid.

Hem-Roid has been successful in hundreds of cases, many of long standing, and is so successful generally, any pile sufferer may give Hem-Roid a trial with the understanding you may have your money back, if the first package is not satisfactory.

MacFarlane and Vancouver Drug Company stores, or any other drugstore can supply you and we feel sure you will find Hem-Roid is very effective, easy and pleasant way to relieve your piles. You can generally see definite results the first day.

Teacher Out Result of Rite

Toronto School Board Finds She Was Secretly Baptized Catholic as Baby

Toronto, Sept. 17.—The fact that certain trustees who insisted upon the dismissal of Miss Margaret McQuhae, twenty-three-year-old teacher of Kent school, based most of their claim that she was a Roman Catholic and had practised deception when she said she was United Church by conviction, rest their case on a secret baptism reportedly unknown to both Miss McQuhae and her father, who was admitted today at the board of education, and by Rev. Dr. Hiram Hull, former head of the United Church conference to whom Rev. C. E. Cragg, minister of Grace United Church, went for advice before he admitted Miss McQuhae to membership in his congregation.

When Miss McQuhae was a mere baby, her mother, a Roman Catholic, fearing her child was at the point of death, secretly called in a sister of the Roman Catholic Church, who performed a ceremony of baptism. This was kept secret from the father, who was a Protestant.

When Miss McQuhae was a mere baby, her mother, a Roman Catholic, fearing her child was at the point of death, secretly called in a sister of the Roman Catholic Church, who performed a ceremony of baptism. This was kept secret from the father, who was a Protestant.

When this story was presented to the trustees, both Miss McQuhae and her father were called into consultation by Dr. C. O. Goldring, superintendent of schools. Both expressed the greatest surprise at the details, but, later, to Rev. C. E. Cragg, minister of Grace United Church, Miss McQuhae's mother admitted the facts.

When a nurse told the mother that her infant daughter seemed on the point of death, she had called in a sister of the church who had performed the ceremony of baptism. It was because he did not think such a ceremony would be binding that the minister of Grace United Church went to Dr. Hull for consultation. It was revealed today.

Mr. Hull said he now understands it is customary and permissible in the Roman Catholic church in the case of impending death, for even a nurse to perform the rite of the sacrament of baptism.

It was to the minister of Grace United Church, it is disclosed in United Church quarters today, that Mrs. McQuhae confessed the secret ceremony of baptism and the fact she had never told her husband or daughter.

ATTENDED PROTESTANT CHURCHES Not only has Miss McQuhae, from the time she was twelve, consistently gone to Protestant churches, and it is now disclosed, attended United Church classes and churches, it was stated today, but before she was admitted to membership of Grace United Church she answered questions such as probably no other entering a United Church by profession of faith ever had to submit to. These questions, it is disclosed, amounted to a renunciation of Roman Catholic faith, if it had ever been held.

Told of all the details and after convincing interviews, Dr. Goldring, superintendent of schools, told the minister of Grace United Church to go ahead and perform the baptismal ceremony that accompanied Miss McQuhae's formal entrance to membership in the United Church, said Mr. Hull.

It is authoritatively stated Miss McQuhae, as a result of her baptism, had to go through the whole creed and gave very positive assent to it.

Interviewed today, in view of his previous hints about the christening ceremony, Trustee Magnus A. Brillinger said: "I don't think I'm saying anything more. It's about time the controversy should end. I've every confidence that the public mind will be clarified on the whole thing by the time the story is complete."

He would not comment when told that both Miss McQuhae and her father had made sworn affidavits that they knew nothing of any christening ceremony under Roman Catholic auspices.

USUALLY RE-BAPTIZED In discussion of the christening ceremony, it was suggested by Rev. Canon Flintridge that the ceremony performed by a lay person would only constitute making a Christian of

Says Fossils Tell Only Half Story

Prof. H. L. Hawkins States Evolution's Stories of Origins Are Lacking

By Science Service
Blackpool, Eng., Sept. 17.—Study of the fossil record of life on the earth in past ages can tell only half of the story of evolution—and the latter half that the first part of each chapter, that tells of origins, is always a blank.

This was brought out by Prof. H. L. Hawkins of the University of Reading, in an address delivered here as president of the British Association for the Advancement of Science.

"A paleontologist is more of an undertaker than a midwife," said Prof. Hawkins. "Paleontology gives no direct evidence as to the origin of groups of whatever taxonomic grade; its scope is limited to records of the later stages in the careers of groups already in existence. This is not to deny that the presumptive evidence for the birth of new types is overwhelmingly strong; but actual tangible proof of their parentage and generation is lacking."

"Again, fossil evidence cannot give convincing demonstration of the origin of structures in organisms; its scope is restricted to observation of the fate of those structures after they have appeared. There must always be a theoretical quality in attempted explanations of the development of new characters; there are facts recording what happens to them in course of time."

STIMULATING CLIMATE The idea that a stimulating climate such as found in high altitudes and at seaside resorts exposed to winds and direct sunshine, helps growth and development, increases red blood cells, aids appetite and gastric secretion, tones the skin and otherwise invigorates, was advanced by Dr. O. Keatner speaking before the physiology section.

A sheltering climate such as is found in forests, lower hills or created in the home by use of heat, was recommended by Dr. Keatner for weak or sick people.

Dr. M. B. Ray, physician to St. Mary's General Dispensary, also said that for the old and feeble, with inadequate powers of adaptation, repeated climatic variations are not desirable.

GIVING UP A WAY "Mother," said little Bobbie at Old Orchard, "are there many mermaids in the sea?"

"No, Bobbie, there are none at all. I just heard daddy tell Mr. Brown he'd come across the loveliest little mermaid near the bathing-pool."

Stamp News

By I. S. Klein

The twin-marble pyons at Vimy Ridge, France, commemorating the sacrifice of Canadian troops there during the World War, are reproduced on a new set of two stamps France has just issued. The stamps appeared in connection with the unveiling of the monument recently by King Edward VIII.

Instead of selling the remaining postage stamps to the highest bidder, as first planned, the U.S. Treasury Department may decide on another way of disposing of these stamps. Post of collectors caused the department to change its mind.

Further airmail service has been inaugurated between the United States and South America, resulting in a saving of two days from Miami to Rio de Janeiro. At the same time, the post office department has announced weekly round trip schedules on the trans-Pacific airmail routes, from San Francisco to Manila.

There is little probability that the trans-Pacific route will be extended beyond Manila this year.

Members of the American Creative League of Music Students have sent a petition to the U.S. Post Office Department, asking for a music stamp to commemorate the 100th year of progress in American musical education.

Judge Is Attacked By Magazine Seller

Olympia, Wash., Sept. 17.—Police today sought an unidentified magazine salesman who yesterday evening attacked Superior Judge D. F. Wright after becoming disgruntled at failing to sell the jurist a magazine subscription.

The veteran judge, who has presided during many important cases involving the state, refused hospital treatment.

The assailant appeared at the courthouse in the afternoon to sell the magazine subscription. Judge Wright refused, and the man appeared at the Wright home last night and struck and kicked the judge.

PROSPECTS FOR MUSIC BRIGHT

Enthusiasm over the prospects of music in education was expressed yesterday at the first of the season's meetings of the Victoria Music Teachers' Association in the Y.W.C.A.

Restoration of music to its place in the education of young people, as evidenced by the recent introduction of music as an optional subject in the high schools, was felt due in part to the impetus given at the first interprovincial convention of music teachers in Vancouver. This gathering was attended by nearly 200 teachers of the province.

The president, Reginald Cox, said he hoped to have reports of the interprovincial gathering and the annual British Columbia session for the October meeting.

An encouraging financial report was submitted by the treasurer after which members discussed plans for joint pupils' recitals. One of these will be held before Christmas and one after, the details to be handled by the programme committee.

It was decided to enlist the co-operation of Mrs. A. J. Smith in arranging a variety entertainment to be followed by a dance in October. It was also decided to place I.O.D.E. collection boxes in the public schools.

The monthly meetings of the South Salt Spring Island Women's Institute have been resumed after the summer vacation season.

Mrs. J. C. Pearce, Pufford Harbor, was hostess last week, Mrs. B. Maxwell presiding.

Picture on Vase 5,000 Years Old

Chicago, Sept. 17.—A 5,000-year-old picture of a bull with curving horns and a monstrous hump on its back, unearthed in Mesopotamia, is important archaeological evidence, linking two of the world's great ancient civilizations—India and Mesopotamia.

The humped bull pictured on a green stoneware vase has been found in ruins of Tell Agrab, old Mesopotamia, city. Prof. Henri Frankfort, director of its Iraq Expedition, has just reported to the Oriental Institute. Since the humped bull was not a native beast of Mesopotamia, but was a familiar figure in the art of India, in that day, the picture animal is considered good evidence that a close relationship between India and Mesopotamia existed.

Another fragment of the same Mesopotamian vase is decorated with a picture of a Sumerian with large hooked nose, typical of the people living in Mesopotamian cities in 3000 B.C. Thus the vase combined in its art a picture of a native inhabitant and a foreign animal.

The land that lay between Mesopotamia and India was far less arid in ancient times than today, Prof. Frankfort pointed out, and he believes travelers went from one center of civilization to the other both by land and by sea.

CHEMICAL KEEPS FLOWERS FRESH

Washington, Sept. 17.—A chemical solution which keeps cut flowers fresh more than twice as long as when they are in water alone, forms the subject matter of a U.S. patent (No. 2,042,974) granted here to J. Weisskopf of Germany. The patent is assigned to the Winthrop Chemical Co. of New York.

The patent states that when large-flowered chrysanthemums are placed in water containing a small quantity of the chemical from 12 to 14 days, whereas in ordinary water they keep for only five to seven days. Poinsettias stay fresh for from six to eight days, where at most they ordinarily last three days.

The preparation consists of ordinary cane sugar and an ammonium compound, dodecylamine hydrochloride. The proportions are seventeen parts of cane sugar and one-tenth part of the ammonium compound to every 1,000 parts of water in which the flowers are kept.

Avoids Finesse For Game

Declarer Eliminates Two Side Suits, Then Throws in Opponent for Lead That Assures Contract

By WM. E. MCKENNEY
A statistically minded friend told me the other day that he believed, "the finesse was well and truly kept, it would be taking a finesse than by refusing one."

I think my friend exaggerated, but there is no doubt that one of the most important things to learn about finessing is not to finesse if another line of play is available.

Take, as an example, today's hand, played in a recent duplicate game in which the field was fairly strong. There was no disagreement about the final contract, but there was a variance of one trick in the result at many tables.

Four odd cannot be missed by proper play, and yet, out of twelve spades, only four found the way to do it, and that was by avoiding the finesse.

Some players responded with one no trump on the first round of bidding, but the better response is two spades, which merely guarantees four tricks.

Today's Contract Problem

South has the contract for four spades. How should he handle the heart situation to have the best chance of making three tricks in that suit?

When the opening lead was made, South did not think his contract was in the slightest danger. The trumps appeared fairly solid. His probable losers appeared to be two hearts and a club if the finesse went wrong.

He ruffed the third round of hearts with the spade five. Then he put down two rounds of spades, only to discover that West had a trump trick. The chance for five-odd was gone, but four still seemed safe.

Declarer next cashed three rounds of diamonds. Then he put West in with a spade and thereby avoided the club finesse.

West could make no lead that would not give South all the remaining tricks, as any play but a club would allow a ruff in one hand and a discard in the other, and the club lead was up to the ace-king-jack in declarer's hand.

By refusing the club finesse, game was made.

PREPARE FOR NEXT SEASON

Hotelmen Look For Greater Travel in 1937, Says Hollywood-Roosevelt Manager

Hotelmen all over the Pacific Coast, satisfied that this year's phenomenal travel presages its continuance next year, are preparing to handle an even greater movement in 1937, states J. Fellman, manager of the Hollywood-Roosevelt Hotel, Hollywood, who is registered at the Empress Hotel.

"We are more than satisfied with the business we handled this season and are confident that next year's travel will be even better," he said. "Now that the travel public has become Pacific Coast conscious the flow will be greater and greater as time goes on."

Mr. Fellman thinks Victoria and Vancouver Island is a travel-drawing factor and is rapidly developing into a popular vacation playground.

PREMIER BACK
ON SATURDAY

Expected Soon to Set Opening Date For Fall Session

Ending a ten-day trip through the southern interior of the province, Premier Pattullo is expected back in his office here Saturday morning. He will reach Vancouver Friday.

Upon the Premier's return the government will consider the date for calling the Legislature together for the fall session.

In provincial circles October 27, Tuesday, is speculated upon as the likely day for the formal opening of the session. Premier Pattullo has indicated he would like to have the House meet about the end of next month.

Legislative preparations are going ahead quietly in ministerial offices with indications that there will be a light list of bills.

Germs May Give Cancer Cure

Madison, Wis., Sept. 17.—Disease germs may provide a cure for rapidly-growing cancers. Steps in the development of this important and promising weapon against certain types of cancer—for it will probably not be a cure for all cancers—were reported by Dr. H. B. Anderson of the U.S. Public Health Service at the session here yesterday morning of the University of Wisconsin's Cancer Institute. Although still in the experimental stage as Dr. Anderson reported it, the results of the animal studies are promising enough to suggest the possibility of clinical trials being made soon.

The growth of mouse cancers has been checked and the tumors have hemorrhaged and died when preparations of disease germs were injected into or spread on the cancers. Almost any kind of disease germ or bacteria will do it, he said. Among those used in the experiments have been the colon bacillus and the germ that causes meningitis. The cultures of bacteria are killed by heat, filtered and treated chemically to remove all traces of substances that would be poisonous to the animal body, without removing the substance that destroys the tumor.

The material finally obtained and injected into the mouse tumors is called a bacterial filtrate. It apparently contains a substance which destroys the newly-formed blood vessels of rapidly-growing tumors, thus cutting off the nourishment for the tumor cells, whereupon they die as seen by the recession of the tumor. Efforts are now being made to isolate from the bacterial filtrate the substance that has this effect on the blood vessels. Not all types of animal tumors have yielded to this bacterial treatment. The spontaneous breast tumors of mice, for example, are not affected by it. Some of the tumors induced by chemicals are affected by this treatment.

Using bacteria to fight cancer is a new-old method of attack. The idea goes back some forty years, originating when it was observed that development of an infectious or germ-caused disease occasionally checked the growth of a cancer from which the patient had previously suffered. Attempts to apply this observation

BATS POSSESS
HOMING INSTINCT

Berlin, Sept. 17.—Bats migrate like birds though not to such great distances. Like birds, they know the way home again. Female bats have a second "home"—a nursery cave, where their young are born, and where males very rarely intrude.

These are among the results of an intensive study of bat ways conducted by Dr. Martin Eisentraut of the University of Berlin here.

Dr. Eisentraut attached identifying bands to over 6,000 bats, after the manner of banding birds. He did this while the bats were in their winter quarters in two places in central Germany. Captured and reported subsequently, the bats showed migration tendencies principally toward the north and east, but their range was not great. In no case did it exceed 300 miles, and many of the little animals did not fly more than four or five miles from the winter cave.

In winter quarters, male and female bats share the same caves, hanging in great clusters from the ceiling and wall projections. But the nursery cave is distinctly a "no man's land"; male intrusions are probably mostly accidental.

Bats' ability to find their way back to the home cave after their summer wanderings indicates a strong local sense, comments Dr. Eisentraut. This is doubly developed in the females, which must keep track of the location of the nursery cave as well as the over-wintering cave.

Display Shows

Work in Health

Satisfaction over the interest created by the city health department's display at the fair was expressed by Dr. Richard Felton, city health officer, today, as he voiced his opinion the exhibit gave Victorians an excellent chance to see briefly what the department was doing.

The exhibit, housed in the newly-converted Industrial Building, features the figure of the Goddess of Health. The figure was executed by W. E. Farmer, milk inspector. Its attractiveness is increased with neon lighting. From the centre-piece radiate ribbons to cards on which are printed the various divisions and subdivisions of health work conducted by the city. It also includes a miniature scene representing a maternity room, exemplifying the work of the Victorian Order of Nurses in that section.

Fresh flowers are provided daily by the parks department.

Scotty Campbell Reaches Last Eight In U.S. Title Golf

THE SPORTS MIRROR

By PETE SALLAWAY

Feudal warfare already is flaring in connection with the probable world baseball series meeting of the New York Yankees and New York Giants.

The American League club, already "in" in the dramatic march of the Polo Grounders not alone because of the commercial value of a 5c subway series in spacious parks.

Joe McCarthy's fence busters regard the prospective National League champions as a rather soft touch, and make no secret of it. The Yankees believe that there are too many old spavined blokes playing important roles with the Giants, and that Bill Terry's athletics lack sufficient power to successfully combat them.

"The Giants hit singles and score few runs," is the Yankee viewpoint. "We hit doubles, triples and home runs. We'll give the Giants a good thrashing," says the Yankees. "We'll do plenty of doubling and score often with grand slams."

The Giants naturally are resentful of the Yankee aspersions. They are confident that the brilliant Carl Hubbell will stop the Ruppert Riffs cold, and that Hal Schumacher also will take good care of Murderer's Row, provided his arm comes around.

Fred Fitzsimmons is efficient again, and the Giants have an idea that Al Smith, the junior member of their left-handed pitching department, would be effective against Gehrig & Co. Frank Gabler, Harry Gumbert and Clyde Sisk, all have been clicked in the Giants' drive, and Dick Coffman is a seasoned relief worker. The Giants reason that the Yankees can't go for extra bases against pitching they can't hit.

The verbal row between the Bronx rivals is quite mild in comparison to the feeling existing between Terry and the baseball writers, however. Relations became so strained in 1934 that a peace luncheon was arranged at which Terry, needing the reporters' aid at the time, humbly apologized for putting on the chili and promised to be civil.

It took the manager of the Giants from the lunch hour until 11 o'clock that night to iron out real and imaginary grievances.

Terry held a penthouse conference with the press at Miami Beach in the spring of 1935 and at least had a nodding acquaintance with the boys until Decoration Day, which seems to be the time of year that the cantankerous pilot runs out of goodwill while enjoying the least bit of good fortune.

Memphis Bill met the boys who write pieces for the papers daily about a yacht at Pensacola this past spring, and some got the impression that he was a changed man. These failed to take into account that the Giants had collapsed largely due to lack of leadership, after compiling a substantial lead for the second consecutive year.

Terry was amiable enough on July 15 of this year, when the Giants were only a game and a half out of sixth place, and young Horace Stoneham announced that they would have to be reconstructed.

But newspapermen in general are "just a lot of clerks" to Terry, and he promptly put them in their places at his club's first upward turn.

Terry's position was precarious on July 15, although his $30,000 or $40,000 contract still has two more years to run. A Giant writer will mean that the great first baseman and hitter will be around as a field marshal for at least that much longer.

Terry persists on losing friends faster than Horace Stoneham and Eddie Brannick, secretary of the club, can make them. Brannick has a full-time job squaring beams.

It will take a banquet to iron out the difficulties this fall, and the way things are going it will require a blowout in the grand ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria to straighten Terry out with the scribes by the time his contract expires.

Seattle Star In 3 and 2 Win Over Easterner

Eliminates William Holt, Syracuse; Johnny Goodman Wins Easily

Jack McLean Is Still in Scrap

Garden City, N.Y., Sept. 17.—Albert "Scotty" Campbell moved into the quarter finals of the United States amateur golf championships today with a 3 and 2 victory over William Holt, Syracuse, N.Y.

By his victory, Campbell kept pace with Johnny Goodman, Omaha, whom he is bracketed as an 8 to 1 favorite to reach the tourney final.

Goodman advanced with a 5 and 3 triumph over eighteen-year-old John Langley, London, Eng.

Ray Billows, the Poughkeepsie printing salesman, qualified to challenge Goodman in this afternoon's quarter final by whipping Larry Lloyd, Port Chester, N.Y., 4 and 3.

Two seasoned campaigners, George Voigt, New York, and Russ Martin, Chicago, came through their fifth-round tests decisively. Voigt turned back Bob Fraser, Omaha, 4 and 3, after Martin eliminated the twenty-year-old University of Texas player, David L. Davis, 3 and 2.

GREAT BATTLE
Johnny Fischer, Walker Cup star from Cincinnati, survived a sensational match with Gus Moreland, Peoria, Ill., the transplanted Texan, winning 1 up.

Moreland led at the turn, with a three-under-par 34, the best nine holes of the tournament, but was not able to sustain his hot pace and yielded to Fischer's staid shot-making in a hard-fought finish.

Fischer squared the match on the fifteenth and won it with a par three on the eighteenth, where Moreland hit his tee shot into the rough, short of the green, and recovered poorly.

Fischer's victory, in a match that saw both youths negotiate the difficult Garden City Golf Club course in 74, one over par, moved him into the quarter-final bracket with Russ Martin.

Scotland's Jack McLean remained the lone foreign threat. He trounced the former Harvard golf captain, Mel Heath, Boston, 6 and 4, and moved into the quarter-finals against the home club veteran, John P. Riddell, Riddell achieved a spectacular twenty-nine victory over his metropolitan rival, Tommy Talier, in the final fifth-round match. Both scored the regulation eighteen holes in even par 73, marking the first time any tournament contestant had turned the trick.

FORSYTH TO WRESTLE HERE

Vancouver Grappler to Engage Leo Papiano in Main Event Saturday Night

Jack Forsyth, Vancouver heavy-weight, will return to the local squared ring Saturday evening to perform in the main event on Promoter Fred Richardson's mat card at the Tilleum Gym. He will battle Leo Papiano, Italy.

Papiano, who made his Victoria debut last week, went down to defeat owing to foul tactics, when he fought Manley Meade, former Yale football star. He likes to rough matters. In Forsyth he will find a man who is able to handle any company and a good scrap should result when these two grapplers meet in the eight-minute tussle.

Chief Thunderbird, Saanich Indian, who has fully recovered from a broken arm which he attained in a match some months ago with George "Cannonball" Kittenmiller, Portland, has urged Promoter Richardson to secure a return match with the Portlander. The Indian lost the match to the "Cannonball" owing to his broken arm, but he is sure he can turn the tables.

Louis Newman, who is progressing well in the heavy-weight class, will show in the opening engagement, which starts at 8:45 o'clock. A suitable opponent for the local lad is being sought from outside points. Last week the Victorian won from "Happy" Hogan in a good match.

Annual Meeting At Uplands Club

Annual meeting of the women members of the Uplands Golf Club will be held on Monday afternoon, September 28, at 4:30 o'clock in the clubhouse. As important business, including the election of officers, will be discussed, a large attendance is requested.

SCORE SECOND STRAIGHT WINS

Portland and Oakland Mark Up Victories in Coast League Ball Finals

San Francisco, Sept. 17.—Oakland defeated San Diego 4 to 3 and Portland swamped Seattle 10 to 5 last night with their second straight victories in the march toward the Pacific Coast League baseball pennant.

The Oakland team goes to San Diego and the Portland Beavers play the third game of the four out of seven game series in Seattle tonight. In Portland the Seattle Indians used four pitchers in an attempt to keep the Beavers from repeating their 5 to 0 victory of Tuesday night. The Beavers registered sixteen hits.

Short scores follow:

Team	R	H	E
Seattle	5	12	1
Portland	10	16	2
Batteries	Koupat, O'Brien; J. Campbell, Wells and Spindel; Liska, Radonits and Brucker.

PITCH CHAMPS ARE DECIDED

H. Kirkham Stars in Island Horseshoe Pitching Events at Willows

Harold Kirkham and S. Cockrill, Lake Hill experts, were yesterday afternoon crowned horseshoe pitching doubles champions of Vancouver Island, when they annexed The Times Cup, symbolic of the event, after defeating A. J. McLeod and C. Fraser in the final.

Kirkham, however, was not satisfied with sharing a championship, for he crashed through in the singles to lift The Colonist Cup.

Plenty of good, stiff competition featured the classic held at the Willows fair grounds. "Twenty of the best performers in Victoria and district took part."

The doubles semi-final was a thrilling fight for supremacy, which resulted in the eventual champions knocking out W. J. Rennie and J. Keating, by two points. This brought Kirkham and Cockrill into the final, which they also won by the close margin of five points.

Kirkham, who has only played the game for two years showed himself to be a pastmaster at the art yesterday. He garnered twenty-five rings in a fifty-point game. Cockrill and Keating, both with more experience to back them up, were unable to keep up with Kirkham, but managed to get twenty-three rings apiece.

Trout Saved By B.C. Mine Boss

Goldbridge, B.C., Sept. 17.—Employees of a gold mine here believe they "superintended" Fred Bradley, deserves recognition for the rescue of hundreds of trapped fish from small pools in Walker Creek, near here.

The creek became shallow over the week-end, due to a heavy frost and snow, and Bradley went up the stream to "inspect a dam."

He found many Dolly Varden and lake trout, stranded in shallow pools, and, helped by the mine crew whom he called to his assistance, scooped up the fish in gunny sacks and rushed them to Big Gun Lake, into which the creek flows.

Miss Mackenzie Is Eliminated

Defending Champion in Canadian Women's Golf Is Defeated

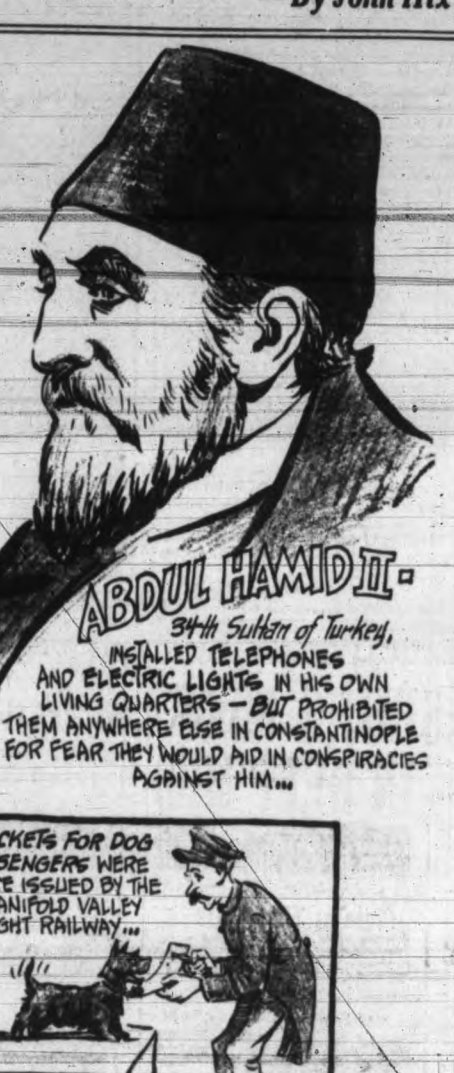

Royal Montreal Golf Club, Dixie, Que., Sept. 17.—A western challenge for the Canadian women's open golf championship was eliminated yesterday with the defeat of Barbara Northwood, Winnipeg, and the veteran, Mrs. W. M. Silcock, Vancouver.

Marion Miller, Lexington, Ky., ace and co-favorite for the title, eliminated Miss Northwood 4 and 3. Away off her game, Mrs. Silcock was beaten 7 and 6 by Mrs. A. B. Darlings, Montreal.

The defending champion, Ada Mackenzie, Toronto, went out with a 2 and 1 defeat at the hands of Mrs. Thomas D. Rudel, New York, the former "Doris" Taylor, Montreal.

Defeat of the defender left as undisputed co-favorites for the championship, Margaret Kirkham, Montreal, the medalist, and Miss Miley, the runner-up for medal honors. They continued their sparkling play last night with another five-goal effort, while the best Salmonbellies could do was three.

Scoring honors were well divided on both sides.

Field, Woodhaven, N.Y., May 19, 1936. "Henry" Egal competed in the 800, the one-mile and the two-mile runs. Strange as it seems, in all three events he ran dead heats for first with members of his own team.

Under modern methods, skyscrapers are wrecked from the bottom up. The basements are first cleared of all partitions, holes then being cut through the above floors, a story at a time. Through these are dumped all the debris of the demolished floors, leaving only the building's steel skeleton, which is taken apart later.

Tomorrow: Embalming Lake.

North Shore Wins Second Straight

Indians Hand New Westminster Salmonbellies 18 to 7 Shellacking to Get Big Edge in Provincial Box Lacrosse Final; Third Battle Tomorrow Night

New Westminster, Sept. 17.—North Shore Indians today held a two-game lead over New Westminster's Salmonbellies in the race for the championship of the Inter-city Box Lacrosse League and the right to represent British Columbia in the Mann Cup play-downs.

Following their tight 13 to 12 squeeze win on Monday in the first game of the best-of-five series, Indians turned on the heat against Salmonbellies on the latter's home floor last night and displayed a powerful defensive as well as offensive game to coast to an 18 to 7 triumph.

Spirits were high around the Indians' camp today with the series considered "in the bag," while on the other hand Salmonbellies, vowed they would stop the dark-skinned horde in the next game in Vancouver tomorrow.

Holding the Fishermen scoreless in the first period while they scored three times, Indians rode the crest of a 6 to 3 count at the half. It was really in the third quarter that Salmonbellies lost the game. While they tried in vain to solve the "Indians' defense the Redskins sneaked through for a total of seven counters in that period and finished up the final quarter with another five-goal effort, while the best Salmonbellies could do was three.

Scoring honors were well divided on both sides.

Rosemont, carrying 121 pounds and well rated by Jockey Harry Richards, forged into the lead by passing the Canadian entries, A. G. Tarn's Rushaway, a Winnipeg colt, and E. F. Seagram's Stand Pat, at the half-mile post. The four-year-old pride of the William Dupont Jr. string was not challenged until Discovery came down the rail off of the rack between the eighth and the sixteenth poles.

Places Second to Rosemont at Narragansett After Slow Start

Pawtucket, R.I., Sept. 17.—Discovery's apparently unbreakable habit of starting slowly yesterday ruined one of his greatest performances and he was beaten by a head by the Fox Catcher Farm's Rosemont, which was worth $32,100 to the victor.

The great Vanderbilt five-year-old, carrying top weight of 130 pounds, and the 3-2 favorite, trailed the eight-horse field for almost half the mile-and-three-sixteenth route and then came with a rush to overtake all but Rosemont.

F. A. Carreau's Time Supply showed a half length behind the gallant favorite, which apparently would have triumphed in another ten yards in the early running, finished fourth to gain the smallest slice of the purse.

C'S RETAIN BERGER CUP

Defeat Victoria Cricket Club By 94 to 79 at Beacon Hill Park

A 91 to 79 victory yesterday afternoon at Beacon Hill Park gave the C's the deciding fixture in the Berger Cup series and possession of the handsome trophy for another year.

Victoria fielded only ten men, and were held to a fairly low score by the steady bowling of Smith and Attwell. The first wicket fell for nine runs and the first three batsmen were disposed of for twenty-six. Darcus and Jones brought the total to sixty for five wickets, but the remaining stumps fell in short order and the whole side was out for 79 runs.

WHITEHEAD BATS WELL
Noel Smith and Percy Shrimpton took the crease for the opening of the churchmen's innings and knocked up eighteen runs before Smith fell before a well-bowled ball by Darcus.

Shrimpton stayed on in spite of fast-falling wickets, and five men were out for thirty-six when Whitehead came in. The latter turned in a commendable exhibition, starting off with six runs off Boston and continuing to hit well around the crease. The remaining batsmen brought the total to 94.

Whitehead topped the scoring list with forty-six runs, including four fours and two sixes. Darcus bowled well for Victoria, taking six wickets for forty-two runs, while Attwell and Smith shared honors for the churchmen.

FIGHT RESULTS

Cleveland—Jimmy Vaughn, 135, Cleveland, outpointed Ray Sharkey, 185, Cleveland, 10 rounds.
Philadelphia, outpointed Ray Impellittere, 230, Colorado Springs (10).
ONE SURPRISE
However, Exeter, an 8 to 1 shot, squeezed through on the rail to win the fifth and started the daily double completed by Adam Somers for a payoff of $28.36.
In the seventh, Cresta Run was an outsider and combined with May Room for a $48.20 return in the one-two. The latter won the daily double bet $15.55, being made up of Joe Sam and Parisa Lane.
T. Formby's Evelyn May scored an impressive win in the day's curtain raiser over Dark Devil and Tommy Doyle, pulling away from them in the stretch. The six-furlongs and three-yards route.
Greenrook Stable's Mar Tee broke her maiden at last when she won the fourth event, for non-winners. The little Marston filly speeded her field from wire to wire with little "Cotton" Barker chukking in the pilot's seat. She went to the post an odds-on favorite.
CLOSING FINISHES
Peach Stone's win in the sixth was one of the most dramatic finishes of the day. Despite carrying top weight of 120 pounds, the Scobey gelding outgamed Flag Bearer and Lomar in the stretch.
Just as thrilling a stretch drive was staged in the steeplechase with Argue, Roy of the Desert and Boudalyn matching strides across the line in that order. Argue was a 5 to 1 shot. Jockey Vessell, who rides few horses, pushed himself right into the running for leading jockey honors and the wrist watch donated by a local concern. He secured with two to bring his total to four for the week. Emil Sporti Mayed in front by adding two winners to his previous total of four.
Jockey Lawwell was assessed a $50 fine for cutting over with Flag Bearer in the sixth, shutting out Romy Bay. Tabulated results follow:

NEW LEAGUE FORM IS URGED

Amery, Visitor in Montreal, Suggests Association of Nations Avoid Coercion

Canadian Press
Montreal, Sept. 17.—The League of Nations should be governed by a spirit of conciliation and international co-operation rather than coercion, Rt.
Hon. L. C. M. Amery, M.P., former British Secretary of State for the Colonies, declared in a statement here yesterday evening.

"First of all," he said, "we should strengthen the real authority and enlarge the membership of the League of Nations by jettisoning all ideas of using it for the purpose of coercion, and by concentrating on its positive functions of conciliation and international co-operation."

"Secondly, we should encourage the natural evolution in Europe and elsewhere of permanent nation groups of commonwealths associated in peaceful economic co-operation as well as for mutual security; the best example being the example which we can afford of the working of the free cooperation in our own empire."

"Thirdly, we should meet any specific dangers that may menace
Britain or any other part of the empire, both by adequate defensive measures of our own—without these there can be no security, individual or collective—as well as by such strictly limited arrangements with other powers—as may at any given moment be indispensable, avoiding alike the dangers of unnecessary interference or entanglement in the affairs of others and of complete isolation in the face of menacing possibilities that we cannot ignore."

The policy of neutrality adopted by the powers in the face of the Spanish civil war was directly contrary in principle to the theory of universal collective security embodied in certain articles of the covenant of the League of Nations, said Mr. Amery.

fight against infection

Marcus, twenty-seven, weakened steadily in her fight against a strep-

Samuel Marcus, her husband, appealed to friends throughout the nation to find a blood donor capable

MEET SOON ON HEALTH UNIT

City Committee to Consider Isolation Hospital Development Shortly

The health committee of the City Council will meet shortly to consider development of the Isolation Hospital as a Greater Victoria unit, Alderman J. D. Hunter, chairman of the health committee, stated today. He expected the group to meet next week, he said.

Should the project be carried through, it would afford improved facilities for all municipalities, Alderman Hunter said.

In return for that, the municipalities would be required to contribute their portions to the capital costs, the remainder of which, it is understood, would be met by the government.

Development of the isolation unit, Alderman Hunter said, would result in a great reduction in costs to the municipalities using it.

The new move would bring the isolation unit under the Jubilee Hospital. The heating, light and nursing services would be considerably lowered than at the present independent unit in a section of the hospital which would afford nurses an opportunity to secure more experience in treatment of infectious diseases than they have at present.

It was believed the plan would greatly improve facilities for surgical work on patients in the isolation unit. The need for better accommodation along that line was very noticeable during the recent outbreak of spinal meningitis, Alderman Hunter said.

At present patients in the unit requiring surgical treatment have to be transferred to the hospital and back after each operation.

MOVIE SHOWN TO ROTARIANS

Club Sees Atlantic City Convention of International on Screen

Motion pictures of the twenty-seventh annual convention of Rotary International in Atlantic City were shown to Victoria Rotarians at their weekly luncheon in the Empress Hotel today.

The pictures taken by amateur photographers among the delegates traveling in two, from the meeting from its beginning to its final sessions. There were shots of the sky-line of Atlantic city and the beaches, and close-ups of prominent officials of both last year and this year.

One of the most spectacular features portrayed was the brilliant ice carnival especially put on for the Rotarians where even the ice had their emblem, the wheel, showing on it.

The picture showed many of the dances and entertainments which were staged for the delegates to the convention. Altogether over 9,000 registered from all parts of the world, and the main meetings were held in Atlantic City's huge $15,000,000 municipal auditorium.

Frank Sehl described the movie while Douglas Flintoff operated the machine.

Before the pictures a trio made up of Miss Sheila Conway, pianist; Chris Miller, violinist, and Bert Botten, cellist, rendered a piece from Bes-tethoven.

President Frank Doherty announced that C. M. Forrest had been elected a member of the club.

Irish Brigade For Spain's Fight

London, Sept. 17.—A confidential circular alleged to have been sent by Gen. Eoin O'Duffy, leader of the Fascist-inclined Irish Blue Shirts, to volunteers for the brigade he is organizing to aid the Spanish Fascists was published by The London Morning Post today.

Dated at Dublin, the circular is titled: "The Irish Crusade Against Communism." It reads:
"Your offer to join the Irish brigade is accepted. Join yourself in readiness to travel with the first batch on short notice. Please treat this letter as strictly secret in the interest of faith and country."

Royal City To Vote on Busses

Canadian Press
New Westminster, Sept. 17.—New Westminster voters will go to the polls on October 5 to decide whether or not the present street car system will be supplanted by busses. It was announced today.
The city council today gave first reading to an agreement incorporating the bus by-law. If it receives the approval of three-fifths of the voters it will be submitted to the full session of the British Columbia Legislature for final ratification.

Total cost of the proposed change is estimated at $400,000, including the purchase of "seventeen" new busses.

HAROLD M. DIGGON

My Boyhood Ambition

A CAB DRIVER

"I have vague, boyish recollections of successive aspirations to become driver of a hansom cab, officer in the navy, and professional hypnotist."

Harold M. Diggon, head of Diggon-Hibben Ltd., clubman and former Saanich councillor.

"When I reached my teens, I had visions of becoming a publisher or the proprietor of a newspaper, the latter being stronger appeal. The gift of a large imposing whip satisfied my first longing. The second was evidently met when I was arrayed in the uniform of a midshipman, which role I played in a school production of H.M.S. Pinafore. I have participated, too, that while still enter-tainable, and to the point, that I implied in the wearing of naval or military uniforms, my youthful experience as a volunteer mounted yeoman in the South African campaign of 1900 satisfied my craving for a career in one or other of His Majesty's services."

"From a very early age I studied sedulously the art of legerdemain.
As a boy I was fascinated by the performances of Mr. Maskelyne, the world-renowned magician whose performances I took every opportunity of attending, as well as those of other famous illusionists. Although my practice of the art stopped short of the professional stage, I have, nevertheless, appeared before over a thousand audiences at charity entertainments, conventions, drawing-room parties and so forth. Save when my friends have protested vehemently that they have drawn the ace of spades from a deck of cards, when in reality they hold the king of hearts,
I have had scant success as a hypnotist."

"To achieve my final objective, I became apprenticed to Messrs. Eyre and Spottiswood, the King's Printer of London, England. There I found the opportunity to develop the business and commercial instinct which had always persisted in asserting itself. I established a sort of loan organization whereby some of the hundreds of employees could secure small weekly loans at a reasonable rate of interest. The income from this source enabled me to secure a small printing outfit and publish my first weekly newspaper."

"I have not yet realized my ambition to own a newspaper.
It is my hope that some day I will, even if merely for the purpose of helping me to prevent reporters from asking embarrassing questions. All things considered, and to be perfectly candid, there is none I would be rather than allow myself to be lived my life over again; I would choose none other vocation than the one
I have followed."

OAK BAY THEATRE

Frederic March and Charles Laughton play fugitive and pursuer in the most celebrated of fictional man-hunts in the 20th Century production of Victor Hugo's "Les Misérables," which begins a three-day run at the Oak Bay Theatre today.

March is seen as Hugo's ill-starred young hero, Jean Valjean, who spends five years in a French prison for stealing a loaf of bread and then becomes a fugitive from justice by violating his parole. Laughton is Javert, the fanatical detective who drives relentlessly along the ex-convict's trail.

PLAZA SHOWS POPULAR STAR

Warner Baxter Plays Leading Role in "The Prisoner of Shark Island"

The "Prisoner of Shark Island," which opened at the Plaza Theatre today, tells a story of the stormy era following the United States Civil War. After Lincoln was assassinated his murderer fled to Maryland, where he prevailed upon a physician to set his broken leg. That physician was Dr. Samuel Mudd, played by Warner Baxter, and to the frenzied mob he became an accomplice in the murder of their idol.

The picture depicts the trial at which Mudd, held with the accomplices, fights futilely against the rising tide of mob hatred, the tense hours when he waits to learn of his fate while others deemed guilty are hanged within his sight, and finally his dreary journey to the Dry Tortugas prison under life sentence.

On the island the real drama begins its course. The gentle, unworldly man fights against the degradation and spiritual starvation, against the bestiality of the labor he is forced to do.

The second feature is "Everybody's Old Man," starring Irvin S. Cobb, Rochelle Hudson and Norman Foster.

Columbia Shows Exciting Story

From the exciting opening scenes in the Idaho gold rush right down to the crashing climax, Fox Film's "Thunder Mountain," which opened at the Columbia Theatre today, carries its star, George O'Brien, through an stirring series of adventures—softened by a tender romance—as the screen has seldom in many a day.

"Thunder Mountain" is the picture of Zane Grey's new and popular novel. Its story, plot ramifications, characterizations bear the stamp of Zane Grey's authenticity, the irresistible lure of his outdoor action pictures.

Two women, Barbara Fritchle and Frances Grant, play important roles in the life of George O'Brien, who in this picture is cast as a virile, two-fisted mining prospector.

The second feature is "Desirable," starring Verree Teasdale.

Tarzan And The Leopard Men

The new c.c. only increased Tarzan's bafflement. The swift of leopard's hair clinked tightly in the hand of the dead warrior, added to the claw marks on the throat. Indicated that Nyamwezi had fought in vain against one of the fierce spotted cats of the jungle.

Tarzan knew that such a battle was impossible within the confines of the strongly palisaded village. But, at that moment, the ape-man sniffed the air through dilated nostrils and caught the vague scent of a leopard! This thing could not be—yet it was!

New Orango, who had been strangely missing from the throng, burst through the crowd and beheld the horrible scene. "Nyamwezi!" he cried. "Nyamwezi, who was my best friend, is dead!" Then he saw Tarzan, once near the ground, crawling slowly on hands and knees.

"What do you do, O Nyamwezi?" he asked. "I go to seek the thing that killed Nyamwezi!" the ape-man answered grimly. "Panic seized the warrior Orango, whose valor was a by-word of the tribe. 'No, no!' he pleaded, 'The thing that killed him will kill you too!'"

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

THREE BLIND MICE.

Answer— I can't. If I knew any way by which a mousy girl could turn herself into a brilliant bird of paradise; if I knew any secret magic by which a quiet girl could suddenly become gay and vivacious and spectacular; if I knew any way by which a girl without dates could attract all men to her, I should not be writing a newspaper column. I should be leading money to Henry Ford, or elected President of the United States by the unanimous feminine vote.

These things come by nature. No one knows how or why. A girl is born with a come-hither look in her eye and wherever she goes men get up and follow her. Or a girl lacks sex appeal and no man notices her, no matter how beautiful or talented she is. Or laughter bubbles over a girl's lips and there is quicksilver in her veins and everybody wants to play with her. But another girl is serious-minded and grave and she is left out of the games.

And if a girl's Fairy Godmother fails to kiss her in the cradle there isn't very much that the girl can do about it. No matter how hard she tries she seldom succeeds in making herself over into the kind of a girl she would like to be. And my advice to you is not to tackle the job. Just be yourself. The quiet girl is just as attractive as the wild one and if she doesn't have as many dates, the ones she does have are far more likely to lead to the altar.

But to try to answer your questions. It is pretty late to try to learn to play when you are thirty years old. Your habits are settled. Your tastes are formed. And it is not likely that you will enjoy jumping around like a young girl and doing flapper stunts. They would make you look ridiculous. But if you have permitted yourself to become too settled you can begin to step out a bit and entertain a little. That is the easiest way to get to know men without seeming to run after them. Men will always eat out of a woman's hand as long as she has good food in it.

The best place to meet men is in business. That is why so many rich society girls are getting jobs. They know that it takes wild horses to drag a man to a tea, that summer resorts and winter resorts are Adam-less Edens, and that the happy hunting ground for husbands is to be found in offices.

The only real good time to which smoking and drinking are requisite are the wild parties where everybody gets drunk and has a headache the next morning. I don't think you need waste any regrets on not being a shining soue.

If you want to learn to dance better and cannot afford a teacher, practice your steps with some friend who is a good dancer. That's easy. But as to how to win a boy on whom you have failed to make an impression, that's a different story. Love comes and goes as it will and none of us know why or have the power to compel it. The only thing you can do to try to turn yourself in the young man's way as often as you can without arousing his suspicions that you have made him an interesting and agreeable to him as possible. Find out his taste in women and then try to be it.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX— I am a boy of fourteen. My parents think that I am not doing my work at school because I was once suspended and because I am getting jobs. They say that is how I do at school and when I try to tell them differently they won't give me a chance to explain. This gets on my nerves. At school I do try to do my best and to get good grades, but my parents keep discouraging me so much that sometimes I think about running away from home. Please give me your advice.

A FRIEND IN NEED.

Answer—My first bit of advice is to urge you not to run away from home. That wouldn't solve your problem. It would only make a bad matter worse. It would only make a tramp of you and cut you off from an education and all the advantages there are in having a family and a home for a background.

And, believe me, son, that hard as your parents are on you, they are not so hard as the world would be. Their fault-finding, nagging, and lack of understanding is a fulsome, flat-out, and tender consideration compared with what you would get from your boss if you started out to make your own living.

Just take it on the chin and remember that the reason your parents are so critical of everything you do is because they love you so much and are anxious for you to make something of yourself.

But I wish that I could say something that would make fathers and mothers understand that praise is far more efficacious than blame in dealing with children, and that if they want to inspire them to great achievements they must make the youngsters feel that they believe in them and expect much of them.

Children are very susceptible to flattery and they will try to live up to your ideals. Compliment a boy on his good manners and you can turn him into a Chesterfield. Boast about Johnny's marks at school and he will top his grade. But if you are always berating a boy for complaining about his not studying he will say what's the use and slack down to the bottom of his class.

Many a boy is a failure in life because his parents were always telling him that he was no good. Many a boy becomes a hoodlum and gangster because his parents were always saying how bad he was and they didn't know what they could do with him and he felt he had to live up to his reputation of being tough.

It is a terrible thing for parents to discourage their children. Oftener than they know they put out the fire of ambition on the altar of the boy's soul.

Uncle Wiggily's Sassafras Tea

BY HOWARD H. GARIS

"Ker choo!" sneezed Mrs. Longears. And again, "Ker choo!"

"Oh, my dear!" squeaked Nurse Jane Fussy Wussy. "You're catching cold. I think."

"I think the cold has caught me," said Mrs. Longears. "She tried to laugh, but half way through it she had to sneeze again, so it sounded like 'He-choo! He-choo!'"

"Perhaps you had better have Dr. Fussum," said the mousy lady housekeeper. "No, I think I can doctor this cold myself," said the rabbit lady. "I will take a cup of hot-aker-choo-tee."

"A-ker-choo!" said Mrs. Longears. "I think I never heard of taking a-ker-choo-tee for a cold."

"I want to say sassafras tea," said Mrs. Longears. "Only the sneeze caught me in the middle of what I was saying. Here comes Uncle Wiggily now. He will hop to the woods, get me some roots of the sassafras bush and you can make me some tea, Nurse Jane."

"And, meanwhile, you had better go to bed," said the rabbit lady.

UNCLE WIGGILY SORRY

Uncle Wiggily felt very sorry for his wife when he came home and found her in bed with a cold. Of course he couldn't see the cold in bed with his wife, but it was there all right.

"Sassafras tea, eh?" said Mr. Longears. "I think the pink nose." "Of course I'll get you some roots." Again he didn't twinkle his nose for his wife said watching him to that made him feel like a fool.

Off to the woods, hopped the rabbit bushes grew. Some of them were as large as small trees. The leaves of the sassafras are broad and green and look somewhat like the broad fingers of a big hand.

"I'll take some bark as well as some roots to make tea for my wife," said Uncle Wiggily as he began digging at the roots of a bush for the roots are under ground, you know. Uncle Wiggily had to dig deep for sassafras roots so far down into the earth.

"Now I think I can pull up some of the roots," said the bunny when he had loosened

TO DINE ON NEW LINER

Austin Curtis and Eric Marshall Leave For Event on Ss. Queen Mary

On their way to New York, where they will dine aboard the liner Queen Mary and inspect her from bridge to engine-room, Austin Curtis, city ticket agent for the Canadian National Railways, and Eric Marshall, local agent for the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway, will leave for Seattle late this afternoon by the Ss. Princess Marguerite.

The party, which will be in charge of C. A. Whitlock, general representative in British Columbia for the Cunard-White Star Line, will be composed of Frank Bay, Vancouver manager of Cook's Tours; Robert Hay, city ticket agent in Vancouver for the C.N.R.; R. J. Hanley, depot ticket agent in Vancouver for the C.N.R.; and H. Scouse of the Bell-Island Travel of Vancouver.

In Seattle this evening they will take the Great Northern's "Empire Builder" for New York.

Associated Press
San Pedro, Sept. 17.—Admiral Sir Matthew Robert Best, commander of the British Navy's West Indies station, is the guest of Los Angeles today for a week's visit.

Arriving aboard his new cruiser flagship Apollo, Admiral Best and his party, which includes Lady Best and their daughter Peggy, will be entertained by a round of social activities arranged by A. H. Tandy, British consul here.

The admiral is en route to his base at Hamilton, Bermuda, for inspection of Canadian naval facilities in the British Columbia region.

Rose Harbor Ships Take 221 and Naden Harbor Ships 155; Capt. Harry Anderson on the White Is "Top" Man

A total of 376 whales were captured off the Queen Charlotte Islands this summer by the six ships of the Consolidated Whaling Corporation's fleet, it was learned when the Naden Harbor vessels, the Black, the Brown and the Green returned to port this week, following by a day or so the Rose Harbor ships, the White, the W. Grant and the Blue.

The Rose Harbor ships took 221 whales during the season, and the ships from Naden accounted for 155. Capt. Harry Anderson on the White was "high" man with ninety. Next came Capt. William Hunter on the Grant with seventy, followed by Capt. Andy Anderson on the Blue with sixty. Capt. P. Bransen on the Green, with fifty-seven, Capt. J. Bransen on the Brown with fifty-one and Capt. White-Balcom on the Black with forty-seven.

This was the first season in several years that the six ships went north. Last year only four left port. The weather was good on the average this season, and the whalers were able to go miles out into the Pacific from their bases on the Queen Charlotte Islands.

Diver Sets New Record Crew Still Aboard Stranded Freighter

Arctic Gale Drives Snow Around Ss. Avon River in Hudson Bay, But Crew in No Danger

Ottawa, Sept. 17.—Capt. Owen and his crew of thirty-two men were still aboard the grain-carrier Avon River at 8 a.m., E.S.T. (5 a.m., P.S.T.) today while a wild Arctic gale and snow squalls held the ship hard aground on Mansel Island at the mouth of Hudson Bay.

The government icebreaker R. N. McLean, standing by the stranded vessel, reported to the radio branch of the Marine Department the weather was still too severe to permit a rescue.

There was no anxiety here over the men with the boat only thirty feet from shore, and the captain reporting they could leave if the cargo boat started to break up.

The Avon River, inward bound for Churchill, went aground on the island yesterday morning when her engines failed and she was caught in the full force of a southwest gale.
